Atlanta Leads Nation in Bank Clearing Increase

46 PER CENT HIKE REGISTERED HERE; EAST SHOWS DROP

Financial Eye of Nation Focused on Southeast Through Rapid Rise. Cotton Price Increase Given Share in Upturn.

SOUTH'S BUSINESS BEST IN COUNTRY

Bankers Report Conditions Definitely Improved, Due to Rising Commodity Prices in South.

Atlanta's startling increase in volume of bank clearings for the second week in December, which was 46.7 per cent over the corresponding period last year, and was approached only by Dallas with 29 per cent, has drawn nationwide attention to this city and the southeastern area. Atlanta business leaders Monday commented on this situation, and offered explanations of the showing.

Atlanta's increase compared with a decrease of 13.1 per cent in Philadelphia, and increases of only 8.5 in New York and 3.4 in Boston in Cleveland, Cincinnati and St. Louis showed losses, but western, southern and southwestern points as a rule fared better.

Increase in cotton prices both for the staple itself and advances made to farmers for ploughed-up acreage, have had a share in the upturn in the southeast, authorities here said. Governmental activities of various kinds have helped, they said, and commodity prices, such as tobacco, sugar, and other products, have been higher. Business generally has been better in the south since the bank holiday than in any other area of the nation.

Clearings on Steady Rise. Clyde Williams, president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association, said that clearings in this section had been steadily on the upturn since the bank holiday in March.

"The increase in the price of commodities of all kinds would, I should think, be the main factor in the increase," Mr. Williams said. "This is particularly true of cotton."

"We have had reports here for some time that the southeast showed better business activity than other sections and the bank clearings naturally reflect this greater prosperity."

"Conditions better," Maddox, chairman of the board of the First National bank of Atlanta, and chairman of the Atlanta NRA, said. "Conditions in Georgia are distinctly better. Collections are easier, and the farmers will get at least twice as much as they received last year for their money crops."

Mr. Maddox said that "there is better feeling among the people. Figures show that electrical consumption has increased."

MOVEMENT TO SOIL IS NOTED BY ICKES IN ANNUAL REPORT

Secretary of Interior Sees Continued Trend of Urban Population Toward Small Farms.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A drift away from the city in a back-to-the-farm movement as a result of "widespread unemployment" in industrial centers was noted today by Secretary Ickes in his annual report to President Roosevelt.

The secretary's report was brief, but with it he transmitted reports of bureau chiefs on the interior department's many activities.

"Each year hundreds of thousands of urban workers with their families, voluntarily or under pressure of economic necessity," the report said, "leave the city for the country, and other hundreds of thousands of farm boys and adult farmers with their families leave the farm for the city."

"In the present situation of widespread unemployment in industrial centers, however, and for several years back it happens that the net drift has been away from the city—a net back to the farm movement."

Subsistence Homesteads. The report referred to the $25,000,000 set up for the establishment of subsistence homesteads whereby industrial workers could raise a part of their food on small farms in slack seasons and said the initial move under the program had been among a small group of West Virginia coal miners.

Society has definitely assumed responsibility for the program.

MORGENTHAU SEES 2 More Families Saved; PRICE INCREASES AS SATISFACTORY

Treasury Chief Answers Criticism With Figures Showing Commodity Level Has Risen.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—In the face of a renewed attack upon the Roosevelt monetary program, Acting Secretary Morgenthau today said government gold buying had induced a 5.12 per cent rise in commodity prices and added:

"I'm satisfied."

His statement followed the first increase in the Reconstruction Corporation's quotation for newly mined domestic gold since December 1. After a consultation between Morgenthau and Chairman Jones of the RFC, the figure was advanced from $34.01 to $34.06.

Meanwhile, Jones announced that purchases of domestic gold had totaled 409,491 ounces at a cost of $15,882,000. As usual, both he and Morgenthau declined to disclose the extent of purchases abroad, although it was known that these, previously negligible, had been greatly increased in the last fortnight, possibly to the extent of $35,000,000.

$16,000,000 Purchased. Morgenthau announced that the department's purchases of government bonds last week totaled $16,000,000, of which $6,000,000 represented the investment of surplus funds of various government agencies and the remainder public debt retirement operations through the sinking fund. By comparison, purchases the previous week were $7,000,000 and the week before that $2,000,000.

These developments followed a report by the Brookings Institution challenging the validity of the theory that increasing the price of gold would automatically cause a rise in commodity prices, and a petition from the National Economic League asking President Roosevelt to balance the budget at the earliest possible date and asserting that the recent rapid increase in the public debt threatened the nation's credit.

Administration advisors today pointed to one statement in the report by the Brookings Institution that increasing the price of gold would automatically cause a rise in commodity prices, and a petition from the National Economic League asking President Roosevelt to balance the budget at the earliest possible date and asserting that the recent rapid increase in the public debt threatened the nation's credit.

2 More Families Saved; Fund Totals $2,451.70

Opportunity No. 8

By ROY ROBERT. The heart of Atlanta opened for the needy Monday and added new impetus to the Ten Opportunities movement. By early night two more families of the group had been "adopted" and $56.50 had been contributed to the general fund for needy people.

Largest of the day's subscriptions was one of $340 by the James L. Key Bible class to care for Opportunity No. 6 throughout next year. Second was the agreement of the Tullo Local and Service Club, of the J. M. Tull Rubber Company, for $240 for the year to care for Opportunity No. 7.

In addition, smaller sums donated in cash totaled $56.50 to bring the total for the day to $2,451.70, making the grand total to date $2,451.70. The two new families "adopted" bring the total cared for to five—the halfway mark. Unless helping hands are extended to the neediest people in Atlanta untold misery will be in store next year for the remaining five groups.

"Happy to Subscribe." In accepting Opportunity No. 6 the executive board of the Key Bible class issued the following statement: "We are gratified that our group was able during 1933 to rehabilitate a needy family and place it back on its feet. We are assuming a greater financial burden this year in the new group to be cared for, but we know that ways and means of raising the funds will be found. We are happy to subscribe $340 to this cause, which

U. S. WILL RELEASE COTTON OPTIONS DURING THIS WEEK

County Agents Soon To Begin Distributing Rights to Farmers Who Reduced Acreage.

By WHITNEY THARIN. WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The farm administration said today that the release of cotton options this week would mean distribution of approximately $48,000,000 to 600,000 cotton farmers.

The options are going to those farmers who co-operated in the plow-up campaign of last July.

The exact date of the release of the options will depend upon the time county agents receive the necessary forms, but Secretary Wallace gave instructions that the money should be disbursed as rapidly as the options were called.

Two courses are open to producers when they receive their options. They may call the options and receive the difference between 6 cents and the market price or they may execute an "exercise of cotton option and pool agreement" and through arrangements made by the farm administration with the Commodity Credit Corporation receive an initial payment of 4 cents a pound or $20 a bale on their options.

Office Organized. The administration has completed organization of a "cotton option office" to receive options from producers and supervise the auditing and disbursing of checks.

Producers who desire to execute the option, but not to participate in the cotton option pool, are to receive a "notice of exercise of option." When this form is executed and received by the cotton option office, a check will be mailed direct to the producer as quickly as the cotton is sold and the optionee's claim properly audited.

Producers who desire to participate in the cotton option pool and obtain the initial payment of $20 a bale are required to execute a form entitled "exercise of option and pool agreement."

When this form and the option are received by the cotton option office, Continued in Page 3, Column 2.

U. S. RELIEF FUNDS PUT 346 TEACHERS IN STATE SCHOOLS

Pupils of Closed Institutions Will Have Schooling Continued; 90 Counties Share in Program.

The federal relief administration came to the aid of poverty-stricken school systems in Georgia Monday with the assignment of 346 unemployed teachers to help in overcrowded schools and to teach the pupils whose schools have been closed by lack of funds.

Ninety counties were represented in the first assignments approved by the relief commission for that work. Paul Barrett, of the state department of education, said that the governor's approval of the plan was a "great relief" to the state.

Financial Statement Required. To obtain relief teachers for regular schools, the counties were required to show to the relief commission their own inability to finance an adequate educational program. Investigation of that question has delayed approval of teachers for the work.

Salaries for the teachers will be paid by the federal government.

INSPECTOR TRIED TO COLLECT FEE, OFFICIALS CHARGE

Ickes Assails Public Works Employee for Asking 5 Per Cent Commission on Loan of $2,000,000 for Bridges in State.

SLACK ONE OF FIVE FIRED BY GOVERNOR

Former Bridge Engineer Ousted Last June When Talmadge Assumed Control Over Department.

Public Works Administrator Ickes announced in Washington Monday that Searcy B. Slack, engineer-examiner and state engineer-inspector-designate of the Georgia public works advisory commission had been "dismissed with prejudice."

The administrator announced the dismissal after stating that he had received affidavits from Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia; other state officials and Slack regarding a conference at the state capital at which it is alleged, that the engineer had sought to obtain from the state authority to draw up and assist in obtaining approval of a $2,000,000 public works loan for bridges on a 5 per cent commission basis and that Slack himself "confirmed the solicitation."

Slack formerly was bridge engineer for the state highway department and was one of the five engineers ousted by the governor when he assumed martial law control of the highway department last June. The chief executive previously having ordered the engineers dropped from the pay roll and refusing to honor requisitions for highway funds when the majority of the old highway board, since ousted, refused to follow the governor's orders regarding the dismissal of Slack and his fellow engineers.

Other Affidavits Obtained. In addition to the governor, Administrator Ickes had obtained affidavits from Highway Commissioner J. L. McRae and M. E. Cox, chief highway engineer. Neither the governor, Judge McRae nor Mr. Cox would comment on the dismissal of Slack. The governor asserting he has "no desire to strike a man when he is down."

Slack went to visit relatives at LaGrange immediately after receiving notice of his dismissal. From LaGrange he said he would make no statement at this time, but added that he would have something to say about the matter later.

In a formal statement announcing the dismissal Secretary Ickes said the action resulted from "the establishment of the fact that Searcy B. Slack told state officials that he could secure

CWA Names Atlantan To Airport Survey Job

A survey of cities and towns on the east coast between Atlanta and Savannah looking to the establishment of airports through use of funds made available by the civil works administration will be initiated immediately by A. W. "Doug" McCormack, of Atlanta, whose appointment as engineer-advisor on airport improvement work was announced in Washington Monday.

Mr. McCormack, who is the son of P. J. McCormack, secretary-manager of the Southern Printing Company, will be assistant to W. F. Cummings, airport advisor to the CWA for Georgia.

Mr. McCormack, who resides with his father at 1034 Piedmont avenue, will assume his duties today.

COUNCIL TO PUSH SEWER FUND PLEA

Committee Will Be Named; Longino To Call County Board at Once.

Modernization of the metropolitan sewer system was given impetus Monday afternoon, when city council set up a special committee to push the undertaking through the local and state boards of health and Fulton and DeKalb counties to join in the move to obtain federal funds for the improvement.

George F. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county commission, announced he would call the commission into special session immediately to place the Fulton contingent squarely behind the proposal, expected to be taken to Fulton and DeKalb counties to join in the move to obtain federal funds for the improvement.

It was announced Monday by the public works administration in Washington that the city's application for proposal to construct the sewer system has been transferred to the civil works administration and the project had been forwarded to the Georgia CWA commission here for consideration.

Aldermen Ed A. Gilliam, Frank H. Reynolds and Farris A. Mitchell, engineers, respectively, of the finance, sewers and purchasing committees, were designated by Mayor Pro Tem. Alvin L. Richards, will constitute the special council group to expedite approval of the project locally.

Richards said he probably would select the two other committee members today.

TROUTMAN HELPS BOYKIN AT TRIAL

Solicitor-General Pro Tem. Says He Believed Young Fund Repaid.

After presenting final testimony as to the Art Young transaction in which William G. McKee charges Solicitor-General Boykin with extortion, McKee Monday afternoon closed his case against the state attorney.

Robert B. Troutman, who was appointed solicitor-general pro tem, last April when charges were preferred before the grand jury by McKee, testified as to McKee's connection with the charges made by McKee at the time.

Among other things, he was questioned as to his examination of the county books for data relating to the Art Young transaction in which McKee charged Boykin with extortion and bribery.

Troutman testified that he told McKee during a series of several conferences had with him and George Finch before the matter was presented to the grand jury, that from his examination of the county books he was convinced that the $400 used for the return of Young from Utah had been repaid to the county, explaining that the system in use was to make cash advances under the method of entering such advances in red ink when made, and showing them in the cash balance when they were repaid, and that a $400 item was thus shown on the books.

Conflicting Statements Charged. McKee has charged that Boykin has made conflicting statements with regard to this money, stating at one time that the money was advanced by the county and at another that it was not.

Troutman said that when he was investigating the charges before bringing them before the grand jury, Finch told him that he understood the May 1932 was "hand-picked" and asked him to present the charges before the March-April term. He stated, however, that both Finch and McKee had advised him to take no time as he wished in the investigation.

CHARLESTON STOP IS MADE BY LINDYS

Last Leg of Home Trip Broken at South Carolina Navy Yard.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, just four and a half hours out of Miami, set their big seaplane down at Charleston navy yard this afternoon and it was announced they had come for a "quiet overnight visit" with Rear Admiral James R. Raby, commander.

Approximately 20,000 miles behind them and their goal of "Christmas with the baby" almost in sight, the famous pair gave out word that 9 a. m. tomorrow, whether peering through the clouds or not, they would see the long trans-oceanic aerial survey tour.

While there was no official statement on the subject, it was understood they would bring their tour to an end at either the North Beach, Long Island, airport, or at Newark, New Jersey.

The plane arrived over Fort Moultrie shortly after 2 p. m., and continued northward. It circled once about the naval reservation, 10 miles up the Cooper river, and dropped into the river with hardly a splash.

Although the colonel had given no inkling of his landing intentions, the docks were soon crowded with service men and civilian employees, who were kept waiting nearly an hour, along with Admiral Raby, while Lindbergh made his plane fast to a buoy.

The Lindberghs left Miami at 9:48 a. m. and were understood to be planning a non-stop hop to Newark airport, where they were to be met by a motorcade and 40 minutes later they were trying up to the buoy.

Not even Pan-American Airways, for which he makes the survey of possible trans-oceanic aviation routes across the north Atlantic, knew of tonight's stop until after the big plane had come to rest on Cooper river.

FILTON PROJECTS APPROVED BY CWA

Georgia Commission To Announce $1,250,000 in Improvements Today.

The civil works administration commission of Georgia approved projects involving expenditures of between $1,250,000 and $1,500,000 at a session Monday. The list of the projects will not be made public until today.

Ronald Ransom, chairman of the commission, said that because of the large amount of clerical work involved in the projects it would be impossible to release the projects before today. The projects will keep the agency at 80,000 persons on the CWA payroll busy for 10 days, it was announced.

It was learned that among the Fulton county projects approved was one which calls for improvement of the gridiron at Grant field and other Georgia Tech improvement projects. The amount involved in these was not disclosed.

The commission also approved two important DeKalb county projects, one involving the expenditure of $250,000 for the ditching and shouldering of Glenwood avenue, Decatur, from the Covington road to the Atlanta city limits and the other involving an expenditure of $42,000 for the improvement of the Stone Mountain-Lithonia highway.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, the civil works administrator, said today that 458,905 persons in 133 localities throughout the United States had been aided during November from relief rolls to the civil works administration.

Hopkins added that during November in 135 cities and urban counties in 45 states and the District of Columbia relief demands increased 8 per cent.

FRENCH GENERALS OPPOSE NAZI ARMS

Paris Military Also Studies Problem of Maintaining Army.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—French military leaders decided today to oppose flatly any re-arming in Germany and developed plans for keeping army ranks filled during the years beginning in 1935, when the low birthrate in the World War years will make itself felt.

As members of the superior war council, the chiefs met in a secret session, studied Chancellor Hitler's demands for arms equality, and prepared to pass their adverse recommendations on to the government.

General Maxime Weygand, the chief of the general staff of the French army, and former Premier Edouard Daladier, who now is minister of war, attended the session.

After the ministers of war, navy, and air have discussed the military findings, the government plans to send the reply to Berlin. Another ministerial decision will involve the wisdom of further Franco-German talks on disarmament.

The council decided that 15,000 specialists will be enlisted and troops who engaged in the pacification of Morocco will be returned.

Normally at least 200,000 youths past their 21st birthdays are available for army service, but beginning in 1936 war ministry officials fear that the minimum may fall as low as 100,000.

This is because comparatively few boys were born during the war years and because of the high infant mortality at that time.

From lack of care, under-nourishment and the gripe epidemic of 1918, army authorities estimated that the percentage of those rejected for physical deficiencies in 1935 or 1936 will be materially increased.

One move to keep the minimum number of recruits as constant as possible was taken earlier this year when many of the summonses of the "war classes" were adjourned, and young men 19 or 20 years old were told to start their compulsory service after their 21st birthdays.

a check for $20 a bale, together with a "participation trust certificate," will be mailed to the county agent. He will be instructed to turn this over to the producer when he has signed a 1934-35 cotton adjustment contract or given satisfactory evidence that he is not eligible to sign such a contract.

Promptness Required.
Producers who desire to obtain the $20 initial payment are required to execute these documents promptly. Under the terms of the cotton option the cotton belt will receive all necessary forms by the middle of this week. County agents were instructed to "begin distribution of these documents as soon as you have received all forms and have familiarized yourself with these instructions."

In order to disburse the checks to producers shortly after the forms have been executed, the farm administration has already completed its disbursing setup here.

COBB URGES RESTRICTION OF ACREAGE FOR 1934

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Restricting cotton acreage next year will prove one of the most effective measures toward national recovery, C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the agricultural adjustment administration, told the 600 workers of the state agricultural extension service here today.

The 1934 program calls for cutting the cotton acreage to 25,000,000. "If the coming restriction program is not successful," Mr. Cobb said, "it is estimated we will produce around 17,000,000 bales next year."

Acquainting the workers with the control program which gets under way January 1, Cobb said all contract forms will be in the hands of campaign workers and that all plans will be in readiness to start by New Year's Day.

Cobb said the 1933 cotton acreage reduction program had been of incalculable benefit to the national recovery program through raising cotton prices, and preventing the cotton carry-over from mounting to further depress values next year.

WALTER O. FOOTE PASSES SUDDENLY

Heart Attack Fatal to Widely Known Civic and Business Leader.

A sudden heart attack proved fatal to Walter O. Foote Monday morning a few minutes after the widely known printing executive and civic leader entered his home at 60 Montgomery

Ferry drive, N. E. from his flower garden, where he had been working. Mr. Foote, who was 67 years of age and apparently in excellent health, died within a few minutes of the attack. He was chairman of the board of the Foote & Davies Company, one of the south's foremost printing establishments, and long had been known as one of the leading citizens of Atlanta.

Funeral services for Mr. Foote will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. The services will be conducted by Dr. Stiles Bradley, former pastor of St. Mark Methodist church, of which Mr. Foote was an active and beloved member, and Dr. John W. Johnson, who was assigned to the church recently from one of the largest Methodist churches in Texas.

Funeral services at the funeral will be held at the funeral home of John M. Cooper, R. S. Barker, W. R. C. Smith, C. M. Zattani, J. P. Allen, S. F. Boykin, Charles T. Hoke, Fredrick J. Paxon and Robert R. Troutman. The board of stewards of St. Mark church will form an escort.

Members of the "Presidents' Club," the Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants' Association and the Atlanta Master Printers' Club also will form honorary escorts at the services.

Mr. Foote had been identified with the printing, binding and publishing business since he was a youth. He was born in Madison, Ga., the son of the Rev. W. R. Foote, who was a professor in the old Madison Female College. The college was burned by Sherman's army and the Foote family moved to a farm near Killebrew, Ga., where the son went to school to Professor Charles M. Neal.

Coming to Atlanta as a youth, Mr. Foote worked for a period in the printing establishment of Frank J. Cohen and established a business in book binding which was to become the Foote & Davies Company. The late M. M. Davies, who died several years ago, became associated with the concern in 1880 and 15 years later the company acquired the lithographing business of the Atlanta Lithographing Company.

Throughout the period of development Mr. Foote was president of the company. About five years ago Mr. Davies became president and Mr. Foote chairman of the board. At Mr. Davies' death Hal Miller became president of the company and Mr. Foote continued as board chairman, which position he held until his death.

Former C. of C. President.
Throughout his business career Mr. Foote was identified with virtually every project whose purpose was the development of the city and section civically. He served as president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce in 1922. His co-operation with the Retail Merchants' Association during his incumbency caused the merchants' group to elect him to life membership in appreciation of his services. Five years later he was named their president for a year.

Mr. Foote was a charter member of the Presidents' Club. He was a director of the Southeastern Fair Association and of the Camp Fire Girls, and served the Municipal Summer Opera Association in a similar capacity.

St. Mark's church and the orphanage of the Methodist denomination at Decatur were his particular interests. He served as secretary and treasurer of the orphanage and the Rev. Matt Hawkins, now superintendent after 25 years' splendid service as superintendent, regarded him as one of the institution's most sympathetic friends.

Mr. Foote was a member of the board of stewards of St. Mark's church, and was an officer of the Warner Hill Bible class.

In 1910, having been a member of the Capital City Club, an Odd Fellow, Mason, Shriner and Elk. Mr. Foote was married to Miss Laura Moll, of Marietta, Ga., in 1882. She survives him, as do three daughters and a son. The daughters are Mrs. Henry B. Troutman, wife of the prominent Atlanta attorney; Mrs. Jonathan Woody, whose husband is a national bank examiner attached to the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, and Mrs. Hartwell Joiner, the wife of a prominent Gainesville (Ga.) physician. His son, W. O. Foote Jr., is an official of American Airways, and resides here. A brother, J. G. Foote, of Atlanta, also survives.

Tribute by Paxon.
Tribute to Mr. Foote was paid Monday by Frederic J. Paxon, of the Presidents' Club of Atlanta, of which Mr. Foote was a charter member.

Mr. Paxon's tribute followed:

The hosts of friends of Walter O. Foote were stunned when they learned early this morning of the passing of Walter O. "Dick," as many of us affectionately called him.

His religious and business life were such that he was thoroughly prepared to answer the call. I can think of him responding "Ready and prepared" to the summons of his Master, whom he had so ably served for years.

I met Walter in the year 1888—I had just come to Atlanta—and over the years we became friends. Our lives touched from time to time as the years went by. He was a loyal and true friend.

During his presidency of the Chamber of Commerce, the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association and the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau, he did able work and achieved lasting results. As a director of many of Atlanta's civic organizations his counsel was sought after and accepted for one could always count upon Walter giving mature and careful consideration of every problem presented to him.

Death has left the gap of the range of many of Atlanta's citizens—not one could be spared. We are living in a very peculiar age, a nerve-racking and trying era, and we need men.

I grieve the loss of Walter. I want to pay this tribute to him. Words are idle, futile in such moments. He has been never felt until later, for death has a numbing effect, and we do not realize until after the great vacuum exists.

Here's Roosevelt's Recipe
For Chestnut Dressing
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Christmas is just a week off, so it's time to plan the dinner.

If you wish a Rooseveltian recipe to give it flavor, here's one straight from the White House—For chestnut dressing: three pounds peeled chestnuts, one quart stale bread crumbs, three-fourths cup butter, one lemon, juice and grated rind; salt, pepper, parsley, nutmeg. Boil nuts in salted water, mash. Fry bread crumbs in the butter which has first been slightly browned with the black pepper, until nicely blended. Mix with nuts, add seasoning, and enough stock until it is of the consistency wanted.

New Order Is Formed By Wm. J. Simmons

William Joseph Simmons, who retired as the presiding genius of the Ku Klux Klan when his dream of empire faded, is reaching out again, this time from behind the scenes of a "nation-wide" organization, "The Nationalists."

An Associated Press dispatch from Jacksonville Monday night said that national headquarters of the organization has been located there and that Simmons announced the purposes of the activity would be described in detail at a meeting Friday.

Simmons said the "Nationalists" had been working in secret throughout the country for nearly a year, seeking "to return America to Americans" by crusading against communism, fascism, socialism. The organization will come out in the open this week, he announced, and seek to "remedy existing economic conditions by correcting abuses of the capitalistic system."

"The Nationalists," said Simmons, have no connection with Ku Klux Klan. His announcement said that any white American citizen could join, but that politics and politicians were barred.

COUNCIL TO PUSH SEWER FUND PLEA

project to the CWA was issued in Washington Monday but has not yet reached the city.

If the commission should approve the project it is expected that funds for it would be allotted 10 days at a time until the entire $6,000,000 has been allocated. The commission probably will take the matter up some time this week.

The CWA also sent to the Georgia CWA commission the application of the city of Hapeville for funds to construct a sewer system and one of the city of Atlanta's applications for funds to construct underpasses. It was not announced which of the several Atlanta sought underpasses was transferred and the exact project will not be known until the formal order reaches Georgia commission today or Wednesday.

Text of Resolution.

Text of the council resolution follows: Be it resolved by the Mayor and General Council:

Whereas, the city of Atlanta did heretofore make application to the United States (federal emergency administration of public works) for a loan and grant for the purpose of extending its sewer system and the building of disposal plants; and

Whereas, upon the request of the city of Atlanta said application has been transferred by the federal emergency administration of public works to the civil works administration; and

Whereas, the board of health of the state of Georgia and the Fulton County Medical Society have repeatedly called to the attention of the officials of this city the necessity for the extension of the sewer system and the building of additional disposal plants as necessary for the protection of the public health; and

Whereas, it is of the utmost importance to the city of Atlanta that speedy action be taken to bring this application before the civil works administration of the state of Georgia to obtain its sanction for this project; the work may be begun immediately:

1. That the city of Atlanta make application to the civil works administration of the state of Georgia through its agencies in Fulton and DeKalb counties for the construction and extension of its sewer system in accordance with the plan described in the application made by the city of Atlanta to the United States (federal emergency administration of public works), or such modification thereof as shall be deemed necessary.

2. That the board of county commissioners of Fulton county and the commissioners of public roads and revenue of DeKalb county be requested to assist the city of Atlanta in such application, and to make requests on their own account for the extension and building of such sewer system, all in accordance with said plan heretofore submitted to the United States (federal emergency administration of public works) by the city of Atlanta, or such modification thereof as shall be deemed necessary.

3. That a special committee consisting of the chairman of the sewer committee, the chairman of the finance committee, the chairman of the purchasing committee, and two other members of the general council selected by the mayor pro tem, be forthwith appointed to confer with the CWA of Georgia, in order that there may be a speedy acceptance of the project, and of the work begun. Such committee shall make report of its acts and recommendations to general council at the earliest possible moment.

cure them a $2,000,000 allotment of the public works funds if paid a 5 per cent commission for work done on resignation.

The administrator quoted Slack as saying that he made "a gross error" in putting the proposal before the state officials before resigning his post with the PWA.

Although the governor would not comment on the situation it was learned that the conference between himself and Slack took place about two months ago. The engineer is said to have called on the chief executive at the capitol and laid the proposal before him. The governor then calling in Judge McRae and Major Cox.

Ikies' Notification.
Secretary Ikies' notification to Slack follows:

"Following an investigation your are hereby separated with prejudice as engineer-examiner and your appointment as state engineer inspector is canceled forthwith."

A statement by Ikies in issuing the notification to Slack said: "It is intolerable that any employee of the public works administration should solicit fees on the false theory that they can deliver PWA allotments to any applicant and it is a futile waste for an applicant to pay fees to any volunteer agents, representatives, lobbyists and other false claimants to influence."

"I have announced publicly and repeatedly that there is no excuse for such action. A member of the PWA staff who seeks a personal gain in this instance deserves no consideration and will receive none."

"When any such instance comes to my attention there will be direct action without ceremony."

Called on Talmadge.
It was reported to PWA, "that the public works statement said, 'that Engineer Slack called upon Governor Eugene Talmadge at Atlanta, Ga., and in the presence of witnesses stated that (Slack) could secure $2,000,000 of the PWA fund to be used by the state highway board of Georgia in the construction of bridges, provided that he (Slack) be paid a commission of 5 per cent for services in drawing the plans and specifications for said bridges. Slack stated that he had received no fee for the work for a 5 per cent fee adjusted to compensate the state highway department for surveys which had already been made, and that he would resign from PWA if commissioned to secure the allotment."

"The deal was not made and subsequently Slack said he had made a gross error in putting the proposition forward while employed by the public works administration."

It was added that in the interim an investigation ordered by Ikies was completed and Slack's services were terminated.

Slack was a veteran employee of the highway department when the governor ordered his dismissal because of alleged waste in the construction of bridges. Almost immediately after his dismissal he had managed to secure a position as a state engineer in charge of PWA projects, when and if, any got under way in the state.

HOME LOAN HEAD WARNS OF INFLUENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—John H. Fahney, chairman of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, said in a statement today he would attempt to jail persons who claim to have special influence in getting home loans.

Fahney's statement called "plain frauds" those who claimed they could influence corporate officials. The statement was issued in connection with the resignation of William G. Donne, home loan manager for Illinois, following complaints against alleged excessive appraisals in Cook county, and against supposed brokers and others who represented that they could obtain prompt loans if paid a commission.

The statement pointed out that the home owners' loan act provides for fines of $10,000 or five years' imprisonment.

Extension Is Approved For Automobile Code

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today extended the effective date of the automobile manufacturers' code through September 4, 1934, upon the report of Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, that employment had increased 20 per cent and pay rolls gained 16 per cent since the agreement has been in force.

The extension was requested by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The request was forwarded by Johnson to the White House with a report that since September 5, when the code went into effect, millions of dollars have been added in wages and thousands of idle workers returned to their jobs.

Johnson's report to the president said the actual increase in pay rolls was from $12,700,000 in July to approximately $14,700,000 in September for the members of the chamber, representing 78 per cent of the production capacity and approximately 95 per cent of the units of the industry.

Employment, he said, increased from 125,600 in July to 150,700 in September, a gain of 25,100 workers.

SEA SCOUTS PRAISED AT ANNUAL INSPECTION

Annual inspection of the Atlanta Sea Scout ship Southland was held Monday night at the meeting hall at 120 1-2 Alabama street. After a rigid inspection by Lieutenant Harry Dobbs, U. S. N., reserves, H. E. Hanahan, a member of the Sea Scout committee of the Southland, and C. L. Adams, assistant Boy Scout executive, the troop was congratulated by Lieutenant Dobbs on its fine appearance.

A series of sea scouting events was put on by the troop. The group was organized in 1928 and the "Southland" is the flagship of the sixth region comprising North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Members of the troop will leave Atlanta December 26 for a week's cruise out of Charleston, S. C., which is an annual event.

Warm Weather To Linger Today After Record Rise To 75 Degrees

Sunday's record-breaking temperature of 75 degrees, followed by Monday's 72, only three degrees colder, will in turn be followed by slightly cooler weather today, but not cool enough to upset December's unusual mildness in the first half of its existence, the weather bureau predicted Monday.

Mostly cloudy, with a temperature range of 50 to 60 degrees and occasional rains, is expected today.

While today's condition will be mild, it will be a considerable drop from Monday's range of 61 to 72 degrees, which, at its highest, was only three degrees less than Sunday's record.

Sunday's record high figure for December has never been equaled in the 65 years' experience of the Atlanta weather bureau, although the first day of the month, which seemed to set the pace, was close to it, with 74 degrees. The closest previous approach was 73 degrees.

Old-timers who sat on the veranda on the 17th of December, or spent the entire day without heat in the house, had something to talk about. The day was mainly sunshiny and motorists took advantage of the weather to make long trips into the country.

Atlanta was not the only hot spot in the state. Albany hung up a new high record with 89 degrees. The hottest December day there in 24 years previous to Sunday was on December 1, 1908, when the thermometer registered 84 degrees.

The previous next highest record at Albany had been 83 degrees. Several Albanians donned their bathing suits and went swimming at Radium Springs.

Mild weather was general Monday in the eastern portion of the United States. Boston's mark at 7 o'clock was 42 degrees; New York, 46; Vicksburg, Miss., 66, and Key West, Fla., 76.

The bureau reported on Monday a widening of the rain area. Rainfall in the Mississippi valley gave Memphis more than three inches of rain, the largest rainfall in that area for several months.

JUDGE ROURKE ACCEPTS SUPERIOR COURT BENCH

John Rourke, chief judge of the Savannah municipal court and ex-officio judge of the city court of Savannah, announced in Atlanta Monday that he had accepted appointment as judge of the eastern circuit of the superior court.

Governor Talmadge tendered the appointment to Judge Rourke to succeed the late Judge Peter W. McElrath. Rourke at that time was in Savannah and requested a few days to consider the matter. He was here attending a meeting of the state relief commission, of which he is a member.

Judge Rourke will receive the oath of office in Governor Talmadge's office at 10 a. m. Wednesday, the governor will officiate at the brief ceremony.

The Savannah judge long has been a close personal and staunch political friend of the governor.

Governor Talmadge told capital newspaper correspondents at his daily press conference that it would not be necessary for Judge Rourke to resign his membership on the Georgia relief commission because of his acceptance of the judgeship of the superior court.

"The relief commission," said the governor, "is purely an advisory board and membership on the commission does not amount to a federal office."

Judge Rourke must run for election to the judgeship post in the next state general election, in the fall of 1934.

His post on the municipal court of Savannah will be filled by the Chatham county commissioners.

ERLE COCKE WORKING ON REGENTS PROJECT

Erle Cocke, secretary of the board of regents of the university system of Georgia, was in Washington Monday aiding public works administration officials in working out the contract for the $3,270,000 worth of projects which were approved by the PWA last week.

Governor Talmadge said there was no doubt that a contract agreeable to him, the board of regents and the PWA could be framed without delay and said he expected the building program provided with PWA funds would get under way shortly after January 1.

RUSSELL WILL CLOSE OFFICE HERE TUESDAY

Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. announced Monday that his offices in the postoffice building will be closed after today and that his office force will be given a brief Christmas vacation before reporting to duty in Washington immediately after New Year's in preparation for the opening of the session of congress January 8.

Senator Russell will spend the holidays with his family at Winder. Members of the office staff are planning brief trips, it being the first vacation for the staff since the senator took office in Washington last January.

"NUMBER GAME" FINE UPHELD IN HIGH COURT

The latest form of lottery, is gambling the state court of appeals ruled Monday in upholding the conviction and $500 fine of Edward Sable, of Savannah. The game is played in Atlanta and other large cities of the state, the winning number being the total sales of a market or clearing-house association.

In his appeal, Sable contended that the game was not gambling under the law and that the evidence against him was insufficient to convict. The high court denied both contentions.

The court of appeals Monday also upheld the conviction and sentence of Harry Walker, of Floyd county, under sentence to serve four years for the attempted kidnapping of the 4-year-old son of J. L. Turbidity, of Rome.

SENDING FALSE ALARMS COSTS TWO YOUTHS $27

Convicted of sending in false fire alarms Saturday night, two youths were given severe reprimands and fined $27 each by Recorder A. W. Callaway Monday morning when they appeared before him. They were C. M. Tribble, 20, of 221 Georgia avenue, and F. G. Wischneyer, 23, of 329 Muldree avenue.

Appearing as a witness of the danger caused when fire trucks speed through the city, Chief O. J. Parker cited the crash which cost the life of Chief Terrell last February while answering a false alarm. Both young men denied they were guilty of the charges, though they were pointed out by several witnesses.

FRENCH AIR SQUADRON COMPLETES LONG TOUR

ALGERS, Algeria, Dec. 18.—(AP) General Victor Vuillemin's "Black Squadron" of 28 army biplanes today triumphantly completed a 10,000-mile tour of France's African possessions.

A hero's acclamation on behalf of France was brought the fliers by Air Minister Pierre Cot, who braved a Mediterranean snowstorm to fly here yesterday.

After their welcome by the diminutive air minister, they found a round of fetes awaiting them.

HAPSBURG DUCHESS IS MOTHER OF GIRL

VIENNA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A daughter was born today to Archduchess Antonine of Hapsburg in the snow-covered suburban villa at Modling, southwest of Vienna.

The child will be christened Marie Eleonora after the dowager Queen Marie of Romania and the mother.

$200,000 STEINER PAY WARD SOUGHT

Move Started by Council
To Get PWA Money;
Teachers To Be Paid.

Creation of a $200,000 pay ward at the Albert Steiner cancer clinic for the purpose of treating persons afflicted with the malady from any section of the southeast was under consideration Monday afternoon following passage by council of a resolution instructing the Steiner board of trustees to investigate the feasibility of obtaining federal aid for the institution. At the same time $100,000 was made available for payment of teachers' salaries for December.

Preliminary negotiations have been under way with federal authorities for the Steiner project and it was indicated that if the trustees favor the program application will be made to PWA for funds with which to erect the unit.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the Steiner trustees, submitted the resolution to council instructing trustees to investigate the feasibility of the proposal.

Council also swept away barriers for an immediate start on the $346,000 new police station as it approved three alternate preliminary proposals for drawings commissioned by George Stephens, architect, to prepare detailed plans; designated the Fulton National bank as trustee for the city for deposit of its portion of the cost of the station and took other steps to expedite actual start on the project.

Key To Approve Pay.
The fund to pay salaries of all employees of the school system for the entire month of December will be approved by Mayor James L. Key.

The measure carried a proviso that if the sum so set up exceeds the 30 per cent of the municipal revenue which is allocated for educational purposes, the excess shall be deducted from 1934 receipts of the board. Consumption of the plan is contingent on sanction by the board of education.

There was only enough money in the treasury to insure payment of school attaches' salaries through December 15, but the council action Monday was believed to have obtained the threat of a lean Christmas for school employees.

The city of Atlanta will issue scrip to most pay rolls of school employees for the entire month of December, as it will for non-school employees under the plan. The Coca-Cola Company has agreed to absorb $500,000 in scrip to be issued for December payments.

Other important council actions were the following:

1. Announcement that council will be reorganized Tuesday, January 2, instead of January 1, which is a legal holiday.
2. Filed a report of the police committee investigating charges that Chief T. O. Sturdivant testified as to the good character of a negro, who had a criminal record. The committee report carried a denial by Sturdivant that he gave the negro, Alex Bryant, a clean bill, or that he knew Bryant had a criminal record.
3. Referred to the 1933 finance committee the 1934 city budget with instructions to report a finance sheet at council's next regular meeting, or to a called meeting, in order to insure funds for payment of municipal employees.

JOSEPH VANCE'S DEATH DECLARED ACCIDENTAL
NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, expressed the opinion today that the death of Louis Joseph Vance, author, was accidental.

Vance's body was found Saturday on the charred remains of a burned upholstered chair.

A city toxicologist reported after an examination of Vance's brain today that the author was intoxicated at the time of his death. Dr. Norris explained the presence of a partially filled can of benzene, saying the fluid had been used by Vance to soften adhesive tape used on an infected jaw.

CWA Worker Is Fined For Maligning Roosevelt

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Accused of maligning President Roosevelt while allegedly under the influence of liquor last night, Tom Smallwood, employed on a civil works project, was fined $10 by Police Judge Jim Givens today.

The fine will be $10 instead of the customary $5, Judge Givens said, "since you bit the hand that is feeding you."

Smallwood was allowed to return to work with a promise he would be "more patriotic."

5. Elected Dr. B. L. Kennon, M. R. Collins, J. L. Jordan, George H. Wagner, Mrs. J. P. Wall, Mrs. L. E. Bowden, G. B. Binder, Mrs. Mattie S. Lofton and J. A. Stevens as eleven ward election managers for the next two years.

6. Thanked Councilman J. Frank Beck for an apple shower he gave his colleagues Monday afternoon.

7. Added Councilman J. Raymond Curtis and Albert J. Sid Tiller to the special police station committee of council supervising construction of the new station.

Wright Bryan, Atlanta Journal city hall reporter, and Mrs. Bryan were felicitated on the birth last week of a daughter, little Miss Ellen Newell Bryan.

Clay's Butler Jailed In $800 Theft Series

Disappearance of clothing and other articles valued at upwards of $800 from the home of Ryburn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National bank, at 21 Cherokee road, was believed solved Monday with the arrest of Robert Wallace, negro butler to Mr. Clay.

In Wallace's house on the Clay estate the police found several articles which Mr. Clay said had been stolen from him. The police also found a negro named Willie O'Neal, who told them he had been locked in the house for three weeks.

Bills of indictment charging Wallace with larceny from the house were drawn in Solicitor General John A. Borkin's office Monday afternoon. O'Neal was held by the police as a witness.

The discovery of the stolen articles resulted from the effort of the police to recover an automobile which was reported stolen from Mr. Clay on Sunday. A man who gave the name of J. L. Brown was arrested off Wesley avenue Sunday afternoon by H. W. Merritt, a policeman at Avondale Estates, while driving a car which the police identified as Mr. Clay's. A bill of indictment charging larceny of the automobile was drawn against Brown Monday.

REWARD OFFERED IN LYNCHING CASE

Judge Orders Tennessee
Grand Jury To Make
Complete Investigation.

GIRL REPUDIATES
KIDNAPING CHARGE

BELAIR, Md., Dec. 18.—(AP)—State's Attorney Meyer H. Getz today announced that kidnapping charges against two negroes, jailed upon the evidence of a 16-year-old white girl, had been dropped.

The girl, Marie Ball, of Taylor, Md., had admitted that her story was untrue, declared Getz.

Getz added that the two negroes, George Highman, of Black Horse, and Ross Jones, of Fallston, Md., would be released.

"For their own safety, however, I deem it wiser to hold them in jail another 24 hours until the news of their innocence can be spread," the state's attorney added.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Describing the lynching of Cord Cheek Friday night as a "disgrace," Governor Hill McAlister today posted a $1,000 reward for apprehension of the negro's slayers as the county grand jury meanwhile laid aside all other matters to push "a thorough and complete investigation."

While the 19-year-old negro's body was found hanging from a cedar tree near Columbia in Maury county, it developed that he was kidnaped from the home of relatives here and therefore Davidson county authorities assumed jurisdiction.

Criminal Judge Chester K. Hart, in a special lynching charge, instructed the grand jury to "immediately take such steps as may be necessary to bring the guilty parties to justice."

Meanwhile at Columbia Chief Deputy Sheriff W. A. Pinkston said an investigation had been started, but little progress made. "All we know," he declared, "is what was in the papers."

Accused of an attempted attack on a young white girl near Columbia, the negro had been held in the Davidson county jail for safe-keeping prior to his release Friday on instructions from Columbia where the grand jury had failed to return an indictment. Governor McAlister's decision to post the reward was made after a committee showed him a resolution adopted by the Nashville Pastors' Association asking him to "sound a note for law supremacy throughout our state and to summon afresh all officials to do their full duty without fear or favor that everyone may enjoy his right of trial by a court of justice."

Resolutions deploring the lynching were adopted also by several other organizations, including a group of ex-service men and another of negro citizens. The latter group endorsed Sheriff L. A. Bauman's action in trying to ascertain the identity of the lynchers and pledged its co-operation in "erasing this stain upon the fair name of the state of Tennessee by the conviction and punishment of the guilty parties."

AAA MAY MODIFY
HOG PROCESS RULES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The farm administration advised Representative Fulmer, democrat, South Carolina, today that it is considering modifying regulations governing the processing tax on hogs to allow producers who slaughter their own animals to sell some of the products without paying the tax.

Under present regulations, if a farmer sells any part of a hog he has slaughtered himself he is liable for the processing tax on the entire hog, custom, Fulmer said, is followed generally in the south.

AMOCO-GAS

—the original special motor fuel!

AMOCO-GAS is the original special motor fuel and sells at a premium over regular gasoline. AMOCO-GAS is regarded as the finest motor fuel on earth, and for nearly two decades many millions of gallons annually had been sold at a 5¢ premium over regular gasoline. It was worth every cent of that premium. Just several months ago, changed economic factors in industry, combined with advantages resulting from our merger with Pan American Petroleum & Transport Company and subsidiaries, made possible a reduction of 40%—2¢ per gallon—in the premium of AMOCO-GAS. The same famous quality has not been changed.

At its reduced premium, AMOCO-GAS is a real bargain. It's different! Its formula is our own exclusive one, employing distinctive expensive ingredients. You get AMOCO-GAS at the GREEN PUMP bearing the "AMOCO" globe.

A WELL-MERITED HONOR.

The banquet to be tendered tonight to President S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, by the staff of the institution, while in particular recognition of his efforts in securing the PWA grant to the university system, is a well-merited appreciation of 30 years of devoted service to the institution of which he is now the head.

A man of profound education, being a graduate of Mercer and a post-graduate of the University of Berlin and of Oxford University, England, his contributions to the cause of higher education have won him nationwide recognition.

Coming to the University of Georgia in 1903, his outstanding work won him steady promotion until he was named dean and later chancellor, which position has since been designated as president.

President Sanford has not permitted his interest to remain exclusively in the academic side of university life, but is a splendid example of the broad-minded and progressive modern educator.

Tonight's banquet is a fitting recognition of a valuable service both to the great institution which he heads and to the state.

AMBASSADOR SAITO.

The selection of Hiroshi Saito to succeed Ambassador DeBuchi at Washington will not only add a brilliant member to diplomatic circles in the American capital, but attests, in view of Saito's long residence in this country and his personal popularity, the desire of the Japanese government to maintain the official relations between the two countries on the basis of sympathetic understanding.

In the ordinary course of Japanese diplomatic policy a man as young as Saito, who is 47 years of age, would not have been assigned to the Washington post—the most important ambassadorship to be filled by the Japanese foreign office. Under usual circumstances the American assignment would have gone to a more mature statesman, but Saito's intimate familiarity with conditions in the United States unquestionably dictated his designation.

As a young man the new ambassador served as consul general at New York and at Seattle. He then became connected with the Japanese embassy at Washington, first as third assistant secretary, later as counselor and then as charge d'affairs. From Washington he was recalled to an important post in the foreign office at Tokyo, later going to Europe as minister to the Netherlands, from which position he came direct to Washington.

His personal popularity in the United States, growing out of respect for his ability and appreciation of his personal charm, was attested by the cordial manner in which members of the party of leading American newspapermen sent to Japan in 1929 by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, received the news that he had been designated as the official representative of the Japanese government to welcome and escort them.

Slender and aristocratic, and a thorough master of English, which he speaks with no perceptible accent, the new ambassador is both unaffected and cordial. His thorough Americanization during his years in this country is attested by the fact that he plays a fine game of golf and, it is rumored, can take good care of himself in a game of poker.

Knowing official Washington, and the sentiment of the people throughout the country, as he does, Saito is better equipped than any other Japanese diplomat to furnish his government with accurate information on developments in the United States, and to co-operate fully with the new spirit of conciliation and co-operation which has been adopted by the state department under democratic control.

His assignment to Washington as the successor of Ambassador DeBuchi is a distinct augury for more intimate and understanding relations between the two countries.

MORE MONEY FOR HOMES.

The formation of a new building and loan association in Atlanta under the provisions of the federal home relief acts is in line with one of the most important aims sought in the creation of the Home Loan bank and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Under the law creating the latter corporation it is authorized to match dollar for dollar the subscribed capital of such new institutions, and the Home Loan bank is able to facilitate their operation after they begin business by discounting their paper.

Under these provisions, a building and loan association, starting with a subscribed capital, for example, of $50,000, can secure an additional $50,000 of federal funds, thus doubling its scope of operation. Then when it begins to make loans for the building of new homes it can secure advances, at low rates of interest, on these mortgages and so again increase its operating capital.

No state in the Union should take advantage of this opportunity more eagerly than Georgia, as it is far down the list of states in the matter of home ownership, largely because it has, but few building and loan organizations as compared with those in other states.

There exists no more lucrative nor safer method of investment than stock of such associations, as proven by the fact that even during the past four years their dividends have averaged between 6 and 8 per cent, and that during the past three depressions less than 1 per cent of the invested money has been lost because of failures.

The new Fulton County Federal Savings and Loan Association starts business with a subscription of $150,000, exclusive of the stock which will be taken by the government, and with a group of officers comprised of well-known Atlanta businessmen and financiers.

Similar action should be taken in every part of the state.

WALTER O. FOOTE.

The death of Walter O. Foote deprives Atlanta of a useful citizen, who for more than a third of a century has been a constant worker for the upbuilding of the community.

Mr. Foote has been for years a tower of strength in any movement looking to the betterment of business and cultural conditions in the city.

His devotion to the public welfare was recognized by his election as president of the Chamber of Commerce, of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association and as a director of the Southeastern Fair Association. His efforts to improve the social and cultural side of the city's life caused him to be selected as a director of the Municipal Light Opera Association and of the Camp Fire Girls. He was a charter member of the Presidents' Club. For many years he has been an untiring worker in the cause of the Decatur Orphans' Home.

Quiet and unassuming, Mr. Foote preferred to perform his public activities quietly and from the background, and the recognition bestowed upon him was upon the insistence of fellow workers and civic leaders.

Atlanta, in all the phases of its civic life, has lost a good and useful citizen in the death of a man who for more than 30 years gave unsparingly of his time and energy for the good of the public.

A New York hat store has obtained a license to handle liquor, as it possibly figures on a large morning-after trade in outsize.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

Smyrna.

The fifty thousand houses which burst in Smyrna the day when the Turks entered and the Greeks left still standing there a mass of charred and blackened ruins. A new city is arising, but further south, I asked a few people, among them a French priest, who really must be held responsible for the disastrous fire, since I found it impossible, after seeing the things Kemal Pasha has done, his marvelous rehabilitation of the country, that the present Turkish president gave the order to fire Smyrna. As a matter of fact, it stands to reason that an army which captures a city and intends to hold it, would set it on fire. I know Atlanta was burned by the northerners, but they could invoke some strategic excuse.

"I don't know about Smyrna," but in Eysra, where I was stationed 10 years ago, the Greeks deliberately fired the town before they retreated. Another person told me that the city had caught fire from incidents in the Armenian quarter. There a bitter resistance jammed, offered the invading army. Every house had to be taken by storm. As it was impossible to dislodge some of the desperate inhabitants, the Turks fired the houses.

Still another individual, the keeper of one of the big hotels, explained it this way. He raised his eyebrows, and then said, "I know Atlanta, and then said: 'A Greek officer who was staying with me when Kemal Pasha approached declared, 'We may have the town up in flames.' I gave it up only in the form of a heap of smoldering ashes.' I was shown photos of the exodus, quays and streets jammed with refugees. I saw a hundred and thirty thousand Greek merchants closed their shops and left. In all, two million Greeks were expelled by Kemal. The result is that you see entire districts deserted here in Asia Minor, villages abandoned, farmhouses crumbling to pieces, whole city blocks in ruins and other towns uninhabited. The former occupants were Greeks."

"Progress" in Venice.

The Venetians are asking themselves whether their beloved city is to be modernized and made like other places, or whether it is to remain as a race they soon will be extinct. People don't seem to want them any more, and prefer the noisy little motor boats which dash through the canals and get passengers anywhere in the space of a few minutes.

I noticed the other day while stepping off in Venice for a few hours, the picturesque little wharves which used to delight the eye as one strolled from the Palace of the Doges to the public gardens, has disappeared. In its place are rows of buildings of boiling tar and growing walls of boats, there will soon be a new promenade in modern style. It will give a view across to the Lido, where where hotels stand shoulder to shoulder. But the little yard was the delight of artists, who will come no more.

There are two parties in Venice—the conservatives, who loved the city as it was, and the progressives, who are pushing the modern buildings among the old marble-studded palaces with their air of mystery and mystery. The conservatives complain that before long the city will leave nothing to the imagination. But the others only laugh.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM HADY

THE AUTOINTOXICATION OBSESSION STILL KNOCKS 'EM DOWN.

Normally, a big nostrum vendor is no ignorant prospector, there is no putrefaction in the intestine. And that is a typical preparation.

Any one with enough brains to consult any authoritative textbook of physiology, Howell's, for instance, will find that the life cycle is just a modern American custom.

"In the large intestine protein putrefaction is a constant and normal occurrence," so says Howell's "Textbook of Physiology," published by Saunders, and available in any public library.

So it comes to a clear issue. Which do you believe—the nostrum vendor, the fake food manufacturer, the trick dealer who blows his nose in the street to attract gullible customers—or the physiologist?

I am not unaware of the fact that a good many of my medical colleagues, some of them high in the profession, still cherish such notions about "auto-intoxication" or some kind of poisoning of the body by absorption of products of putrefaction decomposition of protein substances in the intestine.

But I assert unequivocally—and I doubt that any physician of standing will attempt to contradict this assertion—that there is no scientific evidence that any such thing happens. We have no good reason to imagine that any poisonous or injurious waste matter or product of putrefaction in the intestine can get into the circulation or be an ulcer or other break in the mucous membrane lining the intestine.

Not only is putrefaction in the intestine normal in a healthy person, but as likely as not it may be a beneficial process by means of which the complete digestion of food is possible. There are many products of protein putrefaction in the intestine—peptides, proteoses, ammonia, amino-acids, indol, phenol, skatol, phenylacetic acid, fatty acids, carbon dioxide (carbonic acid gas), hydrogen, marsh gas, hydrogen sulphide—none of which are poisonous, even if administered in considerable doses.

At one time a rough and ready test for indican in the urine served as an index of "auto-intoxication" from putrefaction in the intestine or from putrefaction in the body tissues involved in such conditions as emphysema, putrid bronchitis or bronchiectasis, or abscess formation anywhere. But we know now that indican is normally present in the urine and has no particular significance.

The truth is that one need never worry about auto-intoxication until one is too crazy to take care. And that's no Hibernicism either. What I mean is that, so far as our present knowledge goes, actual absorption of poisonous matter into the system from the intestine happens only in grave acute intestinal obstruction, when the patient is in the hands of the surgeon.

KEELS LAID FOR FOUR NEW U. S. DESTROYERS.

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The keels for four United States Navy destroyers, to be constructed from the $25,000,000 allotted to the Navy Shipbuilding program, were laid in the concern's yard today.

The destroyers will be the Winslow, Porter, McDougal and Selfridge.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

TRADING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The new dealers smile and look the other way when you ask why Greece suddenly changed her mind about protecting Samul Insull. They have a reason for it.

They tried every open diplomatic means of making the Greeks release the dethroned utility king, with no success whatever. They sent special representatives to plead with the Greek courts. They denounced the extradition treaty with Greece in one of the sharpest notes that ever went out of the state department. All Greece did was to shrug its shoulders and pat Insull on the back.

That is a language the Greeks understand. It is clear that you can chalk the matter up as another victory for our new general international policy of Yankee trading.

SUBTLETIES

It seems that American Minister MacVeagh at Athens was instructed from Washington to bring a little informal economic pressure to bear. He did nothing of official. But he let the Greek government know in devious ways that if it wanted Insull it would have to peddle its olives and oil somewhere else than the United States.

That is a language the Greeks understand. Their exports to us amount to less than $10,000,000 annually in current bad exchange times, but $10,000,000 is important to them.

Simultaneously the Greek minister here was seen in state department corridors seeking a good quota for Greek wines. He noted that he was unable to get any consideration. If he was not told outright, he was at least led to believe that the Insull case had a bearing on wines.

Within three days after the temporary wine quota list was given out, Greece announced its decision to relinquish Insull.

SKIPPER

Just call Mr. Roosevelt "Skipper." All the inner circles do in private. They hit on that accurate personal title because of Mr. Roosevelt's manner of issuing orders. He acts as if his governmental associates were the friendly members of the crew of his yacht, and they generally respect him in the same way.

You may recall that Mr. Hoover's inner associates formerly called him "The Chief."

QUIETUDE

There will be fewer public speeches from General Johnson hereafter, and fewer national radio appearances. That much seems to have been decided between Johnson and the White House, but the reason is not clear. Probably the time for speech making has passed. The general has plenty else to do.

It is generally understood inside that anyone who wants the general to make a speech now should first get approval from the White House.

VERBIAGE

Johnson's literary secrets were exposed in that consumers' council meeting recently at the White House. The exposing was done by his consumer aide, Mary Rumsey. She told the assemblage that when the general was at West Point he wrote short stories. He turned out a lot of them and they were good enough to make him believe he might have a future in the short story field.

But the point she made was that the picturesque language used by the general in the NRA campaigns is taken from these old stories. They reeked with "neanderthals," "chislers" and "crack downs."

FAUX PAS

Agriculture Secretary Wallace stepped on the toes of consumer workers at that White House conference. He thought the efforts of the government so far in that respect had not been effective and said so. He described the work as mostly of the club-study group type.

Wallace must have seen the looks on the faces of the club-women there assembled, because he hastened to add: "But that is all to the good. It's all to the good."

NON-PARTISANSHIP

Director Douglas, of the consumer council movement, said he would soon have 3,400 local councils created on a strictly non-political, non-partisan basis.

One of the local council women nudged her neighbor and whispered: "It isn't true; they only appoint democrats."

If Dr. Douglas had heard her the meeting might have become more lively. He is sincerely trying to keep politics out of his outfit. You will know the answer shortly when names of your local councilors are announced.

NOTES

You rarely see a dry lobbyist in this town any more. The other day F. Scott McBride (Anti-Saloon League) walked into the ways and means committee, and no one recognized him.

The Quickest Way to Defeat

Virtue Is to Make It Cost More

By Robert Quillen

The American people, in the last normal year before the war, consumed approximately 14,000,000 gallons of hard liquor with the consent and blessing of the law. The consumption of illicit liquor, sold in violation of revenue laws, probably did not exceed 15,000,000 gallons.

It is commonly assumed that liquor consumption increased under prohibition, and officials interested in revenue expect this increase to be maintained.

But they are inviting disappointment if they expect all liquor consumed after repeal to pay its lawful tax. The cost of making a case of potable, whiskey is approximately $1.60. A case is three gallons or 12 quarts. Interest on the invested money, while the whiskey is aging, plus barreling and labeling, will add at least $5.50 to the cost. The present federal tax of $1.10 a gallon will add $3.30 more, thus making the total cost $10.40 a case.

But there is every reason to believe that the federal tax will be increased to at least $2.50 a gallon, thus adding to the cost of a case. One state has already levied a floor tax of $2 a gallon, and it is quite probable that the other 19 states in which sale is permitted will do as much. This will add $6 more to the price of a case, making the total cost approximately $21. If these figures are correct, the cost of producing a gallon of legal liquor will be not less than $7.

Now consider the moonshiner. Given 75 pounds of sugar, two bushels of meal, two pounds of malt and six yeast cakes, he can produce eleven gallons of good "white mule" at a cost of $5.50. That means 50 cents a gallon.

The nation's palate has been trained to accept unaged liquor, either white or colored.

Given an advantage of $6.50 the gallon in production costs, is there any reason to believe that the moonshiner will quit his calling?

If the people of America would not quit illegal liquor for the sake of law and order, they will not penalize themselves 700 per cent for the privilege of drinking liquor that is taxed.

For the best 10-word original answers to the foregoing question Loew's Grand theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will award two pairs of guest tickets to see "Going Hollywood."

Answers must be mailed to the Day-By-Day Editor, Constitution, and must bear a postmark not later than midnight tomorrow.

"Going Hollywood" is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Marion Davies and Bing Crosby. The picture starts a week's run at the Grand Friday.

O'Mahoney Is Named Wyoming Senator

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 18.—(AP) Governor Leslie A. Miller today appointed J. C. O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general, to fill the Wyoming vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Senator John B. Kendrick.

U. S. RELIEF FUNDS PUT 346 TEACHERS IN STATE SCHOOLS

paid from federal relief funds, on the scale as salaries for persons in similar occupations in the same section, regularly employed. The teachers were about 346 in number, and were eligible for relief before being approved.

A number of counties have been assigned to receive teachers from the state specified, but Barrett said that was done for lack of proper applications from qualified teachers. The assigned counties were to be filled as qualified applicants appeared.

The state school department expressed confidence that additional quotas could be set up for a number of the counties given teachers Monday and said undoubtedly there would be assignments many of the counties would not represent.

Most Counties Ask Aid. Only a few counties have failed to make application for relief teachers in their regular schools, but school officials said a number of others have failed to make a complete showing of their own inability to pay enough teachers.

Counties which were assigned from one to six teachers each for regular schools Monday are: Applegate, Atkinson, Bartow, Ben pool, Boone, Caldwell, Carbon, Chouteau, Converse, Crook, DeWalt, Fergus, Garfield, Hill, Johnson, Lincoln, Logan, McIntosh, Mussouri, Park, Petroleum, Richland, Rosebud, San Juan, Stillwater, Teton, Treasure, Turner, Union, Yellowstone.

NEW CLEANING PRICES MAY BE FIXED TODAY

Reduction in Scale Expected
as NRA Considers Rate Structure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—New price schedules for dry cleaning throughout the United States were withheld again tonight at NRA, but probably will be made public tomorrow, to become effective December 22.

Although a basis for revision downward in many parts of the country had been decided upon, price schedules were not finished this evening. Just how much reduction in the prices was being made officials would not say.

It was indicated that in some cities the original price structure would be left intact and all signs pointed against a differential for cash and carry cleaners, who in large numbers violated the first list and who complained that having to charge the same as cleaners with delivery service would put them out of business.

Officials of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers said they believed the vast majority of the cleaners would be well pleased by the new scales but that they did not expect the cash and carry men to be satisfied.

No prosecutions have yet been started against the 100 price violators who were given a chance to comply at a public hearing last week, but officials indicated action might be taken soon after publication of the new scales.

GIRL STUDENT BLAMED FOR TUSKEGEE FIRES

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A 13-year-old girl student, described by Dr. R. R. Moton, president, as a pyromaniac was blamed today for two recent fires at Tuskegee Institute that caused damage exceeding $50,000.

Dr. Moton said that the girl had confessed setting fire to the two buildings destroyed after she was caught Saturday trying to break into a grammar school building on the campus.

She told Dr. Moton she planned to set fire to the building "to get even with the janitor," who had accused her of stealing and admitted starting the fires that destroyed a girls' dormitory and class room building in October and early this month.

Indictments Denied In Tennessee 'Fraud'

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Charges that four men conspired to defraud the state of $22,082 by using that amount of insurance department funds in behalf of "one of the candidates for governor" in the 1932 election campaign were rejected today by the county grand jury, which returned a "no true bill."

Those named in the presentment that the grand jury discarded were Paul M. Davis and Vance Alexander, bankers; J. I. Reese, former Tennessee commissioner of insurance and banking; and A. V. Louthan, a Nashville attorney.

BABY OF OHIOANS 14 INCHES LONG, WEIGHS 20 OUNCES

FINDLAY, Ohio, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A baby girl, so tiny that at birth the doctors thought her dead, lies contentedly in a little basket beside a coal stove in her parents' home here.

Her mother's wedding ring slips easily over her hand to form a bracelet.

The girl was born Saturday night to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carmen. Weighing only 20 ounces, she gave no apparent signs of life, the father said. Two hours later Carmen, hearing a noise in the kitchen, investigated.

"It was the baby crying," he said. "Why," chimed in the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Finerd, "the baby already is spoiled. She stops crying when I pick her up."

Fifteen drops of a prepared milk every 30 minutes is the baby's diet. At first she was fed with a medicine dropper, but now Grandmother Finerd uses a doll's nursing bottle and calls her "my doll baby." That's the child's only name so far.

With blond hair and dark blue eyes, the animated doll is 14 inches long from head to toe. Her head is 8 inches in circumference—no bigger than a tennis ball—and 3 1/2 inches long. Her fingers are only a half inch long and almost as thin as match sticks. She could stand some fat here and there.

Each parent is 19 years old. Neither is unusually small. The baby's great-grandfather, John Barthel, however, weighed only two pounds at birth.

Captain Ends His Life After Ship Runs Aground

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The American Export Line received word today that A. T. Hickey, master of the steamer Exarch, committed suicide early yesterday after his ship had gone ashore on the coast of Cyprus.

Hickey, who was born in 1896 and was unmarried, lived in Rochester, N. Y.

The message to the steamship line did not disclose the means Captain Hickey used to end his life. Frederick W. Kelclive, first officer, reported his superior's death and took command of the vessel.

GEORGIA GIRL WINS N. Y. COLLEGE CONTEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Miss Garnette Snedeker, of Savannah, Ga., was announced today as the winner of the annual posture contest at Barnard College.

Students voted on the ten highest contestants after judges from the department of physical education had weeded them down from a semi-final group of 75.

Attendant Accused Of Slaying Patient

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A warrant charging James Cox, 25, guard at the North Chicago government hospital, with murder was sworn out today as a result of the death of a war-crazed veteran inmate of the institution.

William McNamara, 35, who came back from war violently insane, died Saturday, and an autopsy revealed, hospital authorities said, that he had been kicked to death.

BANDITS TAKE $2,500 FROM FLORIDA BANK

ORANGE CITY, Fla., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Authorities from several counties in this vicinity tonight sought three bandits who today held up and robbed the Orange City bank of approximately $2,500.

Two of the bandits, heavily armed, surprised the bank president and cashier and forced them to hand over the cash in the bank.

EXTORTIONISTS ELUDE CHICAGO AUTHORITIES

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Federal authorities sought the trail today of extortionists who tried but failed in an attempt to collect $10,000 from Robert A. Gardner, wealthy Lake Forest, Ill., broker and former national amateur golf champion, under threat of slaying Henry Keep Gardner, his 11-year-old son.

A trap by five federal agents acting under direction of Melvin Purvis, chief of the Chicago division of the federal bureau of investigation, and a group of Lake Forest policemen last night failed to bring about the arrest of the extortionists. The trap was laid after a dummy package was placed at the entrance of the J. Ogden Armour melody farm in Lake Forest, but no one appeared to collect it.

How to Use the Table

As an illustration of how the table works, suppose your bill has been running $3.77 a month. First, you find that amount in Column 1. Under the old rates, that much money paid for 60 kilowatt hours. If you use the same amount of electricity in January, 1934, your bill will be only $3.37 (as shown in Column 2), a saving of 40 cents.

But, for that same reduced bill of $3.37, you will be entitled to use, FREE, an additional 11 kilowatt hours (as shown in Column 3).

That means that you can now get 71 kilowatt hours for $3.37, whereas you have been paying $3.77 for only 60 kilowatt hours. In other words, you can now get 11 MORE kilowatt hours for 40 cents LESS money.

Eleven kilowatt hours, in ordinary language, means 183 hours of electric light (from a single 60-watt bulb or divided among a number of them). Or, it will operate a vacuum cleaner 61 hours, or an electric iron 20 hours, or a washing machine 55 hours, or do other equivalent tasks.

IMPORTANT! Added Savings

When your increased use of electricity has "used up" the free kilowatt hours to which your monthly payment entitles you, then extra-low, bargain prices are automatically applied to any additional amount of electricity you wish to use. This new, extra-low rate (called the Inducement Rate) is even lower than the rate shown in Column 2.

- Column 1 shows what you have been paying for various amounts of electric service under the old rates.
- Column 2 shows what you will pay for the same amount of service under the present new rates. (Notice the immediate saving.)
- Column 3 shows the number of FREE kilowatt hours of electric service which are yours for the using, with NO ADDED COST at all to you above the amount of your reduced bill as shown in Column 2. Your only requirement in getting the use of this free electricity in any future month is that the amount of electricity you use in that month show an increase over the amount you used in the same month of 1933.

(The amounts below are given as illustrative of the workings of the new rates. The same general rules apply for the intermediate amounts not shown here.)

Monthly Use in KWH	1 (Old Rate)	2 (New Rate)	3 (Free Electricity)

Einstein Guest of Honor as Famous Laud Memory of Swedish Chemist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Famous men and one woman who have been honored by Nobel prizes gathered at a banquet tonight commemorating the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Alfred B. Nobel, the Swedish chemist whose fortune perpetuates his name in prizes for peace, science and literature.

Professor Albert Einstein, the winner of the physics prize in 1921, was the special guest of honor.

The banquet, given by the World Peaceways, brought together many noted Americans: Jane Addams, of Hull House, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, co-winners of the peace prize for 1931; Frank B. Kellogg, the former secretary of state and justice of the World Court, another peace prize winner for his work in the pact of Paris to outlaw war; Sinclair Lewis, a winner for literature; Irving Langmuir and Dr. Robert A. Millikan, winners of science.

Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia University, was toastmaster. The banquet included many social and civic leaders, among them: Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. August Belmont, former Ambassador to Germany James W. Gerard, Virginia Gildersleeve, Owen Mills, Henry Morgenthau Sr., and Theresa M. Durlach, president of the World Peaceways.

Chicago Opera Season Closes Before 20,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—With an attendance of 20,000 for the last three days, the Chicago Opera Company closed its season at the Hippodrome tonight with "La Traviata."

Maestro Alfredo Salmaghi will take his company on the road for a national tour, opening in Atlanta early in January.

The Salmaghi company has given 200 performances since opening at the Hippodrome early in June for a total attendance of close to 600,000 persons.

"The house tonight was another 'sell-out'."

A new company, backed by several wealthy names in New York who wish to perpetuate opera at low prices, will open at the Hippodrome in January.

ATLANTA LEADS U. S. IN CLEARING GAIN

This year is about 10 per cent greater than last year, which is a very good sign. And we have just heard that 170 banks which are not members of the federal reserve system have applied in Georgia for a guarantee of deposits after January 1 under the temporary insurance fund.

"Money is and has been available at a reasonable rate for all legitimate loans in Georgia. Many things have helped to bring about better conditions, and the spirit of Christmas will be given substantial movement in a financial way when the city pays its $400,000 Wednesday through the co-operation of the Georgia company."

Thousands of dollars were placed in circulation through the banks' Christmas clubs.

Clear Improvement.

Ryburn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National bank, and a leading figure in governmental activities, said that conditions in the small towns of Georgia were better than they had been in years.

"Bank deposits are much higher than last year," he said, "the result of higher prices for commodities and governmental activities. The conditions in the state naturally reflect themselves in Atlanta."

"Take the case of CWA checks. These, paid at various points in the state, come back to Atlanta to be cleared here, and increase the volume of clearing. NRA has also had a beneficial effect."

"Many of the smaller towns are directly dependent on the proceeds from the sale of cotton and other commodities. These towns in turn do business here, and increase our volume."

Employees to Get Bonus.

As a concrete evidence of their faith in the future, Brooke, Tindall & Company, Atlanta investment firm, will give its employees a bonus of 12 1/2 per cent of their annual salaries as a Christmas present. This is not only an expression of the firm's confidence in the future, but comes as a reward for service after 18 months' continued growth, it was said.

Brooke, Tindall & Company was organized August 15, 1932, and since that time has shown a rapid development. The firm's quarters have twice been expanded and the office personnel has been more than doubled.

"We have taken this means," said Julian W. Tindall, partner of the firm, "of expressing in more than words our faith in the administration and in the bright outlook for the future, and as an expression of appreciation for the splendid service rendered by the firm by its employees."

Table Shows Atlanta Gain.

The following table, prepared by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., shows a comparison of bank clearings in leading points in the nation for the second week in December and the corresponding period last year. The country as a whole showed an increase of 6.6 per cent.

ATLANTA MERCHANT JOINS IN PRIZE OF RECOVERY DRIVE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods Association announced today it had sent to President Roosevelt the results of a survey showing that many leading merchants believe the recovery drive is gaining ground steadily.

The merchants praised the NRA and expressed confidence it will bring further improvement.

The association is headed by Lew Hahn. Its announcement said that it is a trade group of 4,500 department and specialty stores.

George E. Whitten, general manager, Burdine's, Miami: "Our sales trend has been nicely ahead of last year for the last few months. Everyone in Miami seems to be an enthusiast over the prospects of our winter season, and it is predicted that we will probably enjoy our biggest season since our real estate boom in 1925 and 1926. It is a well-known fact that when business is good in a resort area, it is a barometer of business improvement in other parts of the country."

F. J. Paxton, president and treasurer, Davison-Paxton Co., Atlanta: "The recovery program has been of tremendous value to business. It has changed consumer psychology from pessimism to optimism. This phase alone justifies a recovery program."

"The recovery program has more in favor of it than against it, and I believe that 1934 will be a year of definite and marked improvement."

Wholesalers, retailers, jobbers, mail order firms and house selling schemes all reported their volume of business was the biggest in four years.

In glassware, there was the biggest boom reported in 14 years. Retail of prohibition and the demand for glasses, pitchers, decanters and every kind of container for serving drinks, have put dealers far behind in filling orders.

As for liquor itself, distributors said there was a "brisk demand" for bottled goods in Christmas-wrapped bottles, but not so large as some of them had expected. One of them said that early shoppers had been mostly "practical gifts" and predicted the

U. S. Treasury Chief Directs Warfare on Rum Runners

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Acting Secretary Morgenthau said today that under his personal direction the coast guard was bringing its full force to bear against a rum fleet that was attempting to smuggle liquor into the United States.

The acting secretary said there were 173 ships, 165 of them flying the British flag, engaged in rum running, and that aside from the call for naval help on the Pacific coast, where the coast guard has no airplanes, the coast guard was handling the problem.

He disclosed the concentration against the rum running a short time after the supreme court had made ready for an early decision on the repeal status of the thousands of pending prohibition indictments. The state department, meanwhile, was deadlocked with French representatives on wine and fruit quota negotiations, with Maurice Carreau-Dombasle, French commercial attaché, explaining he had no instructions from Paris which would permit him to make concessions for lower tariff rates on American apples and other products.

After several hours of discussion, the negotiations were adjourned until the commercial attaché could obtain new instructions.

The disagreement with France arose from action increasing both the quota and the French tariff on American apples, pears, ham and lard with an accompanying request for an increase in the quota of French wine that might be brought into the United States.

The day also saw several other developments in the repeal situation. The treasury ruled that foreign liquor cannot be imported by mail, for the reason that they are barred from the domestic mails. The decision was made in response to several inquiries.

Dr. James M. Doran, spokesman for the distilling industry, announced that he intended to file this week the liquor code authority's price list with the federal alcohol control administration. This, he said, would answer a "great deal of current criticism" of retail prices.

Treasury figures showed the collection of $9,111,173 in liquor taxes for the first 12 days of December. A total of $3,174,338 was collected in stamp taxes on spirits and wines and $3,935,180 was levied on wines and beer of more than 32 per cent alcoholic content.

Dr. Doran said that so much old whiskey leaked out or evaporated from the barrels stored in bond during the years of prohibition that the plan to blend much of it with new spirits was readily defensible.

He said barrels containing 48 to 50 gallons when stored away, now held only 18 to 20. If the remaining supply of aged stock were offered to the public it would be taken quickly by speculators and the wealthy, he added, leaving none to keep the country supplied until newly distilled liquor could be properly aged.

Plant Regains 'Eagle' By Paying Back Wages

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Sol Opatowicz, president of the Moro Manufacturing Company, makers of house dresses, said today that the company's Blue Eagle had been restored following company payment of $4,000 to employees in "back pay" and that the plant would reopen within two weeks, employing its full force of 150.

The NRA insignia was withdrawn from the plant several weeks ago on recommendation of the local compliance board and the plant was closed. The compliance board charged the company had not paid the wages provided for in the president's re-employment agreement. With the differences adjusted by distribution of the "back pay," the board recommended reinstatement.

Liquor dealers would have a last-minute rush.

The best news of bigger buying came from the State street department stores. Said a representative of one of the largest of them:

"Sales are running far ahead of '32, '31 and '30. When the total is added up, it may exceed even 1929."

"The shoppers are buying better quality than in several years."

Crowded aisles and lines waiting to board elevators induced department store executives to believe the increase in sales would be "more than satisfactory," but many of them were contented with calling the gain "substantial."

That Americans outside of Chicago generally are Christmas shopping on a large scale was reported by a mail order house, which said that both its sales by mail and sales in retail stores were several notches above the last three years.

PRICES PAID TO FARMERS INCREASE WITH GOLD

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A. Pearson, professor of prices and statistics at Cornell University, says prices paid to farmers for farm foods and other basic commodities responded promptly to the rising price of gold in the nine-month period from February 15 to November 15.

In an article in the latest issue of Farm Economics, he says there is much confusion concerning the advance in prices because the day-to-day movements may be up or down.

He points out that by comparing changes over a nine-month period, the situation can be understood better.

From February to November, he says the price of gold advanced 60.2 per cent, and the average prices paid to farmers for all farm products increased 51 per cent. The advance in wholesale prices for 17 basic commodities—such as copper, hides and rubber—was 61 per cent. As was to be expected, he said, wholesale prices for all commodities rose less—only 20 per cent.

ATLANTA AMONG LEADERS SHOWING TRADE INCREASE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods Association said today a survey of widely scattered "key" cities showed an 18 per cent increase in shopping for the first two weeks in December over the same period in 1932.

The poll of department stores, the association said, showed increases ranged as high as 38 per cent, in Miami.

The association said the Christmas shopping is progressing at an "accelerated and highly encouraging pace."

Other cities reporting shopping increases for the period are: San Francisco, Nashville, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Little Rock, Cincinnati, Seattle, Phoenix, Denver, Detroit, Chicago, Charleston, W. Va., Philadelphia, Kansas City, Atlanta, Indianapolis and Boston.

George E. Whitten, general manager, Burdine's, Miami: "Our sales trend has been nicely ahead of last year for the last few months. Everyone in Miami seems to be an enthusiast over the prospects of our winter season, and it is predicted that we will probably enjoy our biggest season since our real estate boom in 1925 and 1926. It is a well-known fact that when business is good in a resort area, it is a barometer of business improvement in other parts of the country."

F. J. Paxton, president and treasurer, Davison-Paxton Co., Atlanta: "The recovery program has been of tremendous value to business. It has changed consumer psychology from pessimism to optimism. This phase alone justifies a recovery program."

"The recovery program has more in favor of it than against it, and I believe that 1934 will be a year of definite and marked improvement."

Wholesalers, retailers, jobbers, mail order firms and house selling schemes all reported their volume of business was the biggest in four years.

Mary Pickford Plans Appearance on Stage

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Mary Pickford, of the screen, will appear in a play about the middle of February.

It hasn't been written yet, but Max Gordon, who will manage it, said the show is being written "by one of America's leading play-wrights"—not further identified.

Gordon said the play will open out of town.

Mrs. Pickford's last local appearance in a play was under the management of the late David Belasco with a cast that included young actors, Lillian Gish, Ernest Truax and others who have since been started.

MORGENTHAU SEES PRICE INCREASES AS SATISFACTORY

Brookings attack which they said supported rather than criticized the monetary program. This was a concession that "the depressing effect" (through increasing the dollar value of gold) may, under conditions at present existing in the United States, help to bring the prices of some agricultural commodities entering into export trade, which have been heavily depressed, into a more satisfactory adjustment with other prices."

Difference of Opinion.

This, said the survey, was the most that could be said for the theory on which the program is based. While far from agreeing with this conclusion, as to the limitations of the program's effectiveness, administration advisors said that to bring these heavily depressed agricultural commodities into a better relation to other prices was a major objective of the administration's recovery campaign.

Working away on next year's budget and its related taxation problem, treasury officers had little to say regarding the National Economy League petition, beyond a reiteration of their belief in the continued soundness of the government's credit.

The daily treasury statement of December 15, published today, showed a deficit of $908,000,000 for the fiscal year so far, as compared with $1,581,000,000 for the equivalent period a year ago. Expenses listed as emergency accounted for a little more than the entire deficit.

The mid-month statement of public debt receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year to December 15, showed borrowings of $5,011,000,000 and retirements totaling $4,300,000,000, an increase in the public debt of $1,300,000,000. During the same period a year the nation's indebtedness increased $1,400,000,000.

HERRIOT IS APPOINTED ON LEAGUE COMMITTEE

GENEVA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, today was appointed a member of the League of Nations committee on intellectual co-operation, in succession to the late Paul Painlevé, former French premier and cabinet minister, who died October 29.

Germany May Attend
4-Power Arms Meet

ROME, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Germany's willingness to attend a four-power meeting to straighten out the disarmament impasse, it was reported tonight in well-informed circles, was made known to Undersecretary Fulvio Suvich during one of his recent conferences in Berlin.

This agreement will be coupled, however, with the firm insistence that Germany continue to press its demands for arms equality which have not been acceptable to France, it was understood.

Premier Mussolini will discuss the possibility of calling a four-power parley with Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, who will spend his Christmas holidays in Italy and talk over world issues with Italian statesmen.

IMPEACHED GOVERNOR SEEKS CONGRESS SEAT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Henry S. Johnston, of Perry, impeached and removed as governor of Oklahoma in 1929 on grounds of alleged incompetency, announced today he would be a democratic candidate for congressman-at-large in the 1934 campaign. Johnston is serving now in the state senate.

With Rogers, a school teacher, incumbent, and Ernest Reno, blind proprietor of the State Capitol cigar stand, also have announced for the congressional nomination.

HELD IN MATE'S DEATH, WOMAN SAID SANE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Rosaria Giani, who allegedly killed her husband, Albert, by pouring hot lard on his face and backing him with an ax, is sane, three alienists reported to Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron today.

Mrs. Giani apparently had been "driven to distraction" by brutality of her husband. The woman said she has no recollection of the crime of which she is accused. She will be tried January 25.

Germany Again Cuts Percentage on Debts

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Germany's declining exports and the continued "dumping" of foreign currencies make it impossible for the Reichsbank to maintain its present transfer quota of 50 per cent, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the central bank, said today.

His statement was made to justify the Reichsbank central committee's cut to 30 per cent of the debt payments of all maturing interest and dividend amounts paid into the conversion fund, except the interest and amortization on the 7 per cent Dawes loan and the interest on the 5 1/2 per cent Young loan.

These will be transferred in full. The committee agreed to the prolonging for another six months of the present moratorium on the payments to holders of German bonds.

MRS. SOLOMONOFF MOVES DANCE STUDIO

Mrs. Senia Solomonoff (Lola Menzeli) outstanding teacher of the dance in Atlanta, announces the removal of her studio from the Studio Arts building to the Garner building, at the corner of Peachtree and Tenth streets.

Mrs. Solomonoff's new studio is 302 Garner building, above the Lane drugstore.

Pupils of all ages and degrees of proficiency are placed in suitable classes as well as receiving individual attention from Mrs. Solomonoff. A new class for beginners is now forming. There are also a number of vacancies in the matron's class for physical culture and reducing.

Toe, acrobatic, tap, adagio and other styles of dancing are taught.

CLEBURNE, Texas, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Santa Claus had a hard day when he visited the kiddies of Cleburne, Bessie by hundreds as he led the crowd, Santa's clock was almost torn off and the contents of his sack were scattered.

John L. Humbug Fined In 'Humbugging' Game

John L. Humbug, negro, who wasn't certain where he resides, was fined in police court by Recorder John L. Cone Monday when he was brought up with several other negroes for indulging in a bit of "humbugging" during a "skin game" Saturday night.

John Humbug, who assured the judge that he was giving his right name, denied that he was humbugging anyone but Recorder Cone assessed a fine of $12 against John Humbug on the evidence of officers who found the game in progress.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

On that side he found the guy wire which extended to the top of the pine to make it rigid.

Just as he suspected, that particular stay, because it had no strain on it was moderately slack, although it vibrated occasionally as the top of the pine whipped back against the wind. It was a braided strand of three-eighths-inch cable fairly flexible which was fastened to the base of one of the other pines by a bolt imbedded in the trunk with the slack taken up by a turnbuckle.

As quietly as possible Vern unscrewed the turnbuckle which released the cable entirely so that he could hold it in his hands. He would have given a hundred dollars for about two feet more of cable, but as it was fastened to the turnbuckle back on the loose end and ran the strap of his belt through the eyehole of the turnbuckle, thus lengthening it approximately 36 inches. Also the belt was something that he could hold in his teeth which he did while he resolutely attacked the problem of climbing the trunk of the tall pine. There was only one thing which made this possible and that was the fact that the lookout had been geyed by stays to that very tree for so many years that the tree had grown old in the service and several successive ring bolts had been imbedded in the trunk and had grown upward with the tree itself.

And Vern had been a sailor. With the belt strap in his teeth he managed to pull himself up by the ringbolts to where he could just barely get a knee grip on the bole of the tree so that he could swarm up steeply jack fashion until he reached the first horizontal branches.

There he stopped for a few minutes' rest and incidentally to take up the slack in the cable which, as he ascended, grew greater. He let the turnbuckle go now and held the cable in a running noose of the belt. All set, he started upward again by the easier route of the branches. The chief difficulty now was in keeping the cable clear of the twigs and foliage. With any other tree but a pine it would have been practically impossible. As it was he once or twice had to crawl out on a branch to disengage a snarl.

As he rose the movement of the tree in the wind became more appreciable. Still higher it became a violent tossing and the noise of the gale through the branches rose to a shrill screech. No wonder Pete Panckake in his lookout had not been able to hear anything.

The tree containing the lookout was a little taller than the others. Quite naturally the largest one had been selected. But the lookout itself was not at the extreme top of the trunk. It had been built far enough down so that it had quite a sturdy support from the tree itself. Therefore Vern was able to climb high enough on the now slender trunk of his own tree so that he was actually above the platform of the lookout.

Then became apparent the reason for his seemingly foolish behavior in carrying the cable with him to the top of the tree. Because now, working in the wind and being careful not to take up enough of the slack so that the cable would jerk the platform of the lookout when the tree swayed, Vern twisted a big loop of the cable around the tree between branches where it would be firmly supported from slipping downward.

Then he disengaged his belt and made a loop of it over the slanting strand extending from the trunk of the tree where he was downward to the point just above the lookout where it was fastened.

He was approximately 75 to 80 feet from the ground. If Vern had known any good prayers there would have been a good place to have gone over them.

But all he could do was murmur fervently "good luck" as he grasped the loop of the belt in his hands and swung off. He hoped that it was good leather in the belt and that there were no frayed strands of the cable between him and the lookout.

He started to slide very slowly at first but pretty soon the slant of the cable and the fact that it was fortunately smooth accelerated the pace. By the time he was midway between the two trees he was racing toward the department store clerk shoots on his goal like one of those little boxes a wire to the cashier's office.

Zing! Bang!

He was there. Dazed somewhat by the shock of landing, Vern was not quite ready to meet the attack which his arrival precipitated.

Whether or not Panckake had been asleep or drunk when Vern had attempted to send him a code message, the tree trunk made no difference. The terrific and incontrovertible fact is that he was thoroughly awake and on his feet when Vern stopped by for his informal chat.

Vern dropped to the deck of the lookout into the arms of the enemy. As has been mentioned before, Vern was not a very large man except in spirit. Pete Panckake was a giant in every way especially physically.

He laughed a little when he found how small a Greek horse had made his way inside the walls of his department store. The Trojan horse under similar circumstances, it is reported, first on one side of the face and then on the other. History has a strange habit of repeating the same stuff over and over again.

First Vern kicked him in the stomach which is considered a foul in a rope ring but is not barred in hand-to-hand fighting where there are no witnesses. With an involuntary exclamation of surprise Panckake dropped his smaller opponent and put his hands on the painful place. This gave Vern an excellent opportunity to put his right fist and then his left into just under Panckake's chin which he could easily reach since the big man was bent over.

That ought to have done the trick but Panckake was not so delicate around the head and he had a jaw like the corner-stone of a skyscraper. Two swats on it acted as a sort of a stimulant and reminded him not to pay too much attention to his stomach. He came toward Vern with arms outstretched for a gorilla embrace.

Evidently this was not going to be a fist fight. That lessened Vern's chances one hundred per cent right away because the little enemy had no hand available would not count for anything in a squeezing contest.

The best that the smaller man could hope for would be to keep out of a clinch for as long as possible on the chance that some accident would give him a lucky break before the crushing process began.

The platform was circular and quite roomy, perhaps 15 feet in diameter. There were a couple of crude stools and some wooden benches. Vern inventoried the furniture over the corner of his eye in the hope that he would find something that he could use to trip the bigger man. He was also of Irene's former hovering excitedly in the background, keeping out of the way. The boy was screaming semi-hysterically. No wonder. The poor kid must be pretty nearly at the limit of his endurance after a week or more of association with these nightmarish ruffians. The threats which had been made to secure his early obedience had probably been enough to shake the nerve of a full-grown man.

The only advantage which Vern was conscious of possessing was a slightly superior agility. That would make the struggle last longer even if it failed to give him any greater likelihood of being the victor.

Vern did not dare to come close enough to strike with his fists. Panckake had longer arms and it was too dangerous to get within reach of that muscular grip.

So Vern ducked and sidestepped, trying to trip the heavier man as he lurched past him. It did not work. Panckake anticipated the maneuver and whirled too soon. Vern did manage to tackle him, footed fast as he came around and threw him to the floor for a brief second. But there was no hope of holding him there without the assistance of at least two other men so Vern used the moment's respite to grab one of the stools. As the big man started to get up Vern struck at his head with it. The other, with catlike swiftness, guarded with his left forearm. The blow carried through just enough to hurt but not to stun him.

With a snarl of rage Panckake snatched the stool from his adversary's hands and threw it over the rail. There was too much noise in the treetops for Vern to hear it crash on the ground below but did not doubt that it made a terrific racket down there, especially if it struck anything.

There did not seem to be much gained by having forced the issue in the lookout. Vern had no false idea of his own powers in the kind of a fight that was going on. And luck seemed to be running against him. He also had no illusions as to what would happen when once Panckake got his hands on him. There would not be any question of mercifully sparing the life of the loser.

And yet confronting this fate Vern was strangely happy. He had the consciousness of having made an effort to defend the girl who had chosen him to be the recipient of her love. It would be rather better to have died in an attempt to justify her choice than to live like a catfish who has allowed a thief and marauder to run off unhindered with his dearest possession. The events of this night made up a lifetime anyway. If there should not be any more, why, this was enough—surely an even exchange at least for many years of the routine of Fifth Avenue and Broadway.

The fight, if it had ever really been a fight, now became a pursuit with Vern unhappily cast in the role of the hare. The platform was like a squared circle with a post in the middle of it. Vern took every possible advantage of the obstruction which he, the lighter man, could avail himself of. It made dodging a little easier. In time Vern would have been able to wear his opponent down to a condition where they might have fought on more even terms.

But, by an accident, the advantage of time was taken away from him. Drury, the boy, undoubtedly meant to help. His attempt was slowly reviving under the stimulus of excitement and on his mind must have dawned the realization that upon the outcome of the struggle which was going on depended his own survival.

He picked up the remaining stool and threw it in the path of Panckake. The latter unfortunately chose that very moment to dodge back and so the other way.

Vern saw his opponent's maneuver and shifted direction, too.

But he was not to get the stool. He crashed over it to the deck of the platform and Panckake came down on top of him.

For a moment Vern was too dazed to realize what had happened.

As he lay there he was conscious, for the first time of a sound like someone opening bottles of wine—a distant pattering over the treetops, corks.

Then his attention was snapped back to the hopeless plight in which he found himself. He was lying on his back, the big man was breathing like a steam exhaust and then, if ever, would have been the time to force the issue.

But, unfortunately, Vern was at the end of his own resources too. And he was not to get the stool. And there wasn't an ounce of effort left in either man. But mere passive weight gave Panckake the advantage. And Vern was too tired to make it easier for him to recover his wind.

The stool was smashed and the fragments lay under them.

Finally Panckake began to get up. Vern tried to do likewise but he couldn't. Perhaps a bone was broken somewhere. He could not tell.

The popping of distant corks kept up. There were still in the flooring of the platform. That explained the noise. Bullets! Someone was shooting at them from the ground. Not that it really made any difference or would. Apparently the platform door was very thick and there was little chance of a stray shot penetrating, even if it was fired from a friendly weapon.

INSULL HAND SEEN IN 'EMPIRE' CRASH

Witnesses Say Magnate
Chose Receivers Who Gave Signal for Fall.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Bankers and lawyers who sat with Samuel Insull in a death watch as his utilities empire tottered into the abyss of receivership and bankruptcy for the holding companies testified today that he helped choose the receivers and the creditors who gave the signal for the fall.

They had gathered before Federal Judge Evan A. Evans for a post-mortem inquiry into the charge of a bereft stockholder that the senior Insull wrote his own ticket in the shutting of his financial houses into receivership.

The evidence they gave showed that Insull lawyers wrote the bills for the complainant companies which petitioned Middle West Utilities, Inc., into the hands of federal court receivers; that Samuel Insull Sr. told his lawyer who the petitioning creditor would be, and that Insull suggested the name of one of the receivers appointed.

Washington Flexner, president of the Lincoln Printing Company, which petitioned Middle West Utilities into receivership, asserted Samuel Insull Jr. and an Insull attorney had approached him with the suggestion that Lincoln Printing Company be the complainant in the receivership.

His company held two Middle West Utilities notes. These, however, were time notes not to expire for another 30 days, Flexner said, and it was decided to change one of the notes for $3,000 to a demand note to facilitate an immediate petition in court.

Aids in Questioning.
Federal Judge Evans himself took a hand in questioning the witnesses and, after developing from Samuel Insull Jr. that the companies had but $5,000,000 in their treasuries to satisfy $50,000,000 owed to the banks and $65,000,000 in debentures outstanding, the court commented:

"The issue may narrow down to the point whether or not the receiverships were planned to prevent creditors from filing claims against the companies."

It was James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co., who asserted Insull had nominated George A. Cooke as a co-receiver for Insull Utility Investments, Inc. He said this occurred at one of the private conferences of bankers and Insull men. Leavell had testified that Insull Utility Investments owed his bank $1,000,000 and all the Insull concerns owed the bank a total of $40,000,000. He was questioned by Samuel Eitelson, former Chicago corporation counsel who instituted the charges of collusion as counsel for his wife, a stockholder.

Insull in Charge.
Leavell testified: "I don't know who called the meeting, but the senior Mr. Insull seemed to be in charge. He advised us that it was inevitable that the companies should go into receivership and that it was a matter as to who should be the receivers. There was a general discussion, but I recall Mr. Insull Sr. saying that he preferred not to be one of the receivers."

At a subsequent meeting, Leavell said, someone proposed Calvin Fentress as a receiver. Fentress was later appointed, and subsequently removed after evidence was adduced that he was an interested party.

"Who suggested the name of former Judge Cooke, an Insull lawyer, as co-receiver with Mr. Fentress?" Eitelson asked Leavell.

"I believe it was Mr. Insull Sr.," Leavell responded.

"Did Mr. Fentress say he wanted to be sole receiver?"
"Yes," said Leavell. "Mr. Fentress, after we had succeeded in getting his consent, laid down the condition that he would accept but only as the sole receiver, and that was the opinion of the meeting, as a succeeding meeting Mr. Insull said that he felt someone from the companies should act as a co-receiver. Mr. Insull said he wanted Mr. Cooke to act as such. Mr. Fentress agreed."

Woman Wields Pistol In Tennessee Holdup

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A slim young woman with wavy, bobbed hair, participated in the hold-up of a filling station near here early today.

She and a male companion entered the station operated by J. S. Hutton, the night manager, and ordered gasoline for a car they said was parked down the highway. After receiving the gas, both flourished pistols. While the man covered Hutton, the woman took $18 from the cash register. They forced Hutton to walk with them for a mile before releasing him.

Voting Is Abolished Throughout Prussia

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Voting was abolished in Prussia today by six sweeping laws which centralized the government and introduced the leadership principle into the smallest local unit.

Liberalistic and democratic vestiges will be eradicated and supplanted by a strong and responsible leadership," it was said.

The laws were expected to serve as a basis for reforms in the other German states. Prussia is the largest province in Germany.

Chaco Truce Proposal Accepted by Bolivia

MONTVIDEO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Bolivia accepted a proposal for a truce in the Gran Chaco border warfare with Paraguay, it was authoritatively learned tonight.

Paraguay proposed the armistice at the Pan-American conference in order to allow for an arbitration of claims of the two nations, which have been in dispute over the Chaco boreal for 50 years.

Senate Body To Probe Bank Law Enforcement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Members of the senate banking committee hinted today that their inquiry opening tomorrow into the Detroit banking collapse may include an investigation of enforcement of the bank laws under the Hoover administration.

Committee members said records of the controller of the currency's office would be presented in connection with the investigation of Detroit's banking troubles which led to the national bank holiday last spring.

State Witness Balks, Murder Trial Halted

MORGANTON, N. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Trial of Dwight Beard, charged with murdering Gus Bounous, Valdeese merchant, in a holdup last year, was halted almost as it began today when Alvin Ellers, already convicted of complicity in the case, declined to carry out a previous promise to testify for the state.

Ellers stood on his constitutional rights, expressing fear his testimony would make him liable to later prosecution as an accessory after the fact. His present prison term was imposed for his being an accessory before the fact.

After a conference between prosecution counsel and Judge Wilson Warlick the case was again set for hearing in February, the state announcing itself unprepared to continue without Ellers at present.

Beard was brought back here from St. Paul, Minn., where he was accused of being a "society bandit" and where he nearly married a prominent girl a short time after being banished from North Carolina for hog stealing.

4 Men Are Rescued From Mediterranean

MARSEILLE, France, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Four men who had been adrift aboard their crippled seaplane for more than 20 hours in the stormy Mediterranean were rescued at dawn today by the steamer Saint Marguerite.

The heavy snowfall which had hampered the visibility of four ships steaming blindly around the plane in an angry sea stopped during the night.

At daybreak, the Saint Marguerite sighted the stricken craft at a point about 80 miles south of Marseille.

The cold and weary occupants of the plane were taken aboard, along with the mail carried and the ship steamed for Dizeria, Africa.

The plane was abandoned.

MOVEMENT TO SOIL IS NOTED BY ICKES IN ANNUAL REPORT

responsibility for enabling these miners to become self-supporting in a rural community to be organized by them under government supervision and with the aid of federal funds," the report continued.

"They are potential farmers and are to become real farmers. This means that they must be taught how to farm for home consumption. But more than this, since it is a 'factory' rather than simply a farm project, they must be taught also to engage in some subsidiary craft or trade, suitable for the rural community or the home by which they can supplement the family income."

In further discussing the drift of population away from urban centers, the report said the movement had not been one altogether of a going-back-home or back to the farm exodus of unemployed workers with their families. It had embraced also the report said, in increasing volume a drift out of congested urban areas into nearby suburban districts where the worker could obtain a piece of ground for farming on a small scale or for a home garden.

Continuation Seen.
"This dispersion of urban populations, and development of part-time gardening or farming in suburban areas as a means of eking out family incomes, may be expected to continue in increased volume in the future," the report said.

Predominant throughout the report was the emphasis laid by the chiefs of the various bureaus and divisions upon their decrease activities occasioned by sharp economies being effected in the department.

Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, said in the part of the report devoted to that activity, that income due his bureau from all sources during the fiscal year ending June 30 was $4,688,255.57, or $711,059.37 less than the previous year.

"Reducing revenues coming into the reclamation fund have brought about a sharp reduction in construction activities; and unless some means be found for resuming work on a more extensive scale, funds that have been spent on storage workers and canal systems will remain tied up until projects have been completed and water made available for the irrigable lands, and until water can be furnished the government is not in a position to call for the return of the construction costs," he said.

Prices Better.
Dr. Mead noted a "substantial increase" this spring in prices of dairy products, wool, cotton and livestock. He said 190 public farm units had been opened to settlement during the year but that owing to the "depressed financial condition prevalent on a large majority of the projects, there was little to encourage settlement of vacant public lands."

John Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, said the Indian service was "moving on the main lines of policy," and remarked first upon the situation of Indian lands. He said the allotment system under which great sections of Indian land holdings had fallen into the hands of whites upon the deaths of Indian owners must be revised.

Allotted lands must be consolidated into tribal or corporate ownership with individual tenure and new lands must be acquired for the 90,000 Indians who are landless at the present time," he said.

Financial Credit.
Collier said a modern system of financial credit "must be instituted to enable the Indians to use their own natural resources. And training in the modern techniques of land use must be supplied Indians."

Collier said the government must reacquire enough lands to provide subsistence for 50,000 landless Indians. The report of the office of education was that of Dr. William John Cooper, whose term of office ended on July 10 soon after the close of the fiscal year, for which the report was prepared. The present commissioner of education is Dr. George F. Zook.

Cooper's report said that while the effects of the depression were reflected in school budgets a year or so after they were felt by the industrial and commercial world the year had been a critical one for schools of all types.

Cooper said one of the investigations carried on by the office was an inquiry into possible participation of the state and federal governments in financing education. The results of the investigation were not disclosed.

"BACK-TO-FARM" PLAN LAUNCHED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—(UP)—A nation-wide plan for depopulating Germany's big cities in an unprecedented "back-to-the-farm" movement was announced by officials in the department of labor today.

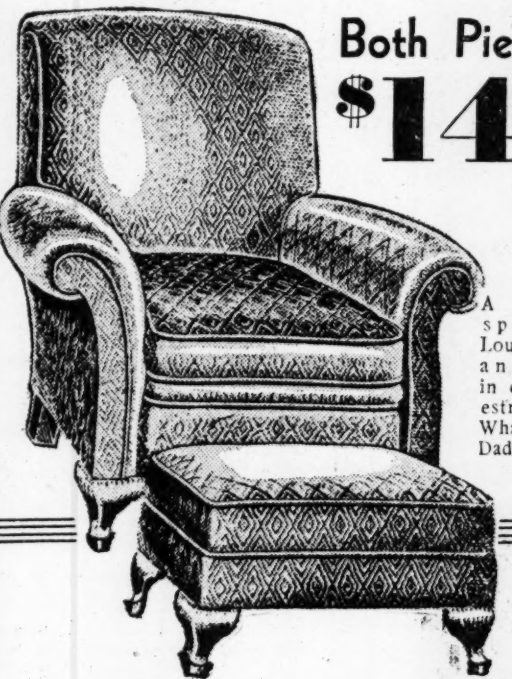

The department has evolved an elaborate scheme envisaging a radical replanning of Germany's population. The residents of the cities would be resettled on the countryside and instructed in farming methods to make them almost completely self-sufficient as far as foodstuffs are concerned.

Officials estimated that it would take 20 years of hard work for a "labor army" of 500,000 persons.

Mrs. Kate Thompson Gives Xmas Dinner For Service Club

Mrs. Kate Thompson was hostess recently to the Service Club of Mary E. La Rocca Grove, of the Supreme Forest Woodmen circle, at a Christmas dinner at her home at 218 St. Michael street in East Point. After dinner the business meeting was held and Mrs. Kate Thompson, the co-chairman, presided, and new officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Kate Thompson elected chairman, Mrs. Lulu Brown, co-chairman, and Mrs. Beatrice Owen, the efficient secretary for the past two years, was re-elected to fill her same office.

Social activities for the holidays were planned, and on Saturday evening, December 23, Mrs. Lulu Brown will be hostess to the club and members of Mary E. La Rocca Grove, at a Christmas tree party, at her new home at 202 Newman avenue, in East Point. There will be a gift placed on the tree for each guest.

Mrs. A. C. Humphreys will entertain the Service Club members and close friends at her home in Union City on Saturday evening, December 30. Mrs. Mary Redmon will be hostess to the Service Club on Wednesday, December 27, at her home 402 Chastanoochee avenue, in East Point; this will be the last meeting of the year and a large attendance is urged.

Visitors enjoying Mrs. Thompson's hospitality were Mrs. C. E. Lyle, Miss Olive Swygart, M. S. Thompson, W. A. Shearin, J. O. Crusselle, J. B. Redmond and Hynes Shearin, and members present were Mesdames Lulu Brown, Jennie Hodge, Mary Redmond, Jeannie Brown, Beatrice Owen, Ova Keith, Lavenia Yarian, Helen Shearin, Kate Thompson and Daisy Montre and J. M. Brown, I. L. Montre, M. M. Brown and June Yarian.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Celebrate Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Harris celebrated their 50th anniversary Sunday at a dinner given at their home on Pryor street, where they have resided for the past 27 years. The occasion also marked the celebration of the birthdays of Mr. and Mrs. Harris, both of which fell in December. The former is 81 years of age and the latter 80.

Visitors Arrive For Holidays.
Mrs. H. A. Snelling and her son, Robert L. Christopher, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Andrew, at 212 Twelfth street, N. E., for the holidays. For the past two years Mrs. Snelling has made her home in Sacramento, Cal., where her husband, the late Harry A. Snelling, operated the Snelling Shoe Company.

Mr. Christopher held a position in Fort Worth, Texas, for several years, but has been in Sacramento since May of this year when he joined his father in business. He graduated from Tech High school and attended Emory University in 1927-28.

Miss Frances Baker, who attends LeFrang's College, is also the guest of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew, for the holidays.

Witches' Club.
Witches Club, Atlanta's oldest, independent philanthropic society, met last Friday in the Frances Virginia tea room, Mrs. W. C. Cottingham being hostess. Reports for the year closing were encouraging. Letters of appreciation were read from several organizations.

The club was founded in 1914 with 24 members, and according to charter keeps that number enrolled. The January meeting will be in the nature of a reunion of original members and honorary members. Mrs. Robert Blackburn, the club's president, is a reading scholar, being particularly honored with one of her pupils, Miss Hettie Higgenbotham, blind protégée of the club, now one of Atlanta's accomplished singers, will sing.

Members present at the recent meeting were Mesdames W. E. Carnes, John Bradley, H. R. Long, Collier Laird, M. M. Murphy, J. A. Williams, Julia Turner, Ethel White, E. E. Huguley, W. C. Cottingham. A luncheon-bridge was enjoyed after the meeting with Mrs. J. A. Williams winning top score, and Mrs. W. E. Carnes, consolation. Mrs. Walter S. McKay was honor guest.

Camp Fire Girls' Xmas Activities Include Many Interesting Projects

"Camp Fire Girls throughout the country are entering the holiday spirit with many interesting and varied activities. Lighting the living trees, a custom long sponsored by the Camp Fire Girl has had a most popular place in the group activities. It is the desire of every girl to make Atlanta and greater Atlanta more cheerful and gay with the out-of-door lights on shrubs and trees. Dressing dolls for Santa's community store has created a great deal of interest. The girls buy the dolls at Camp Fire headquarters, dress them and distribute them through the store for the needy.

Christmas carols will be a most interesting activity for the girls this year. East Point and College Park girls are joining forces in their respective cities to carol throughout the city Christmas eve. Decatur groups will sing at homes where a lighted Christmas candle invites the girls to sing. Atlanta girls will meet at the Deid Hills Methodist church at 4:15 o'clock to begin a two-hour period stopping at the Bessie Branham park, in Kirkwood, for a special service under the leadership of Mrs. A. E. Wilson Sr.

The Torchbearer Club will be entertained by Mrs. Jack Savage, at a tea on December 28. Camp Fire Girls joined in the Santa Claus demonstration by escorting the orphans of Hillside Cottages, Atlanta Child's home, and the Decatur orphanage to the parade Friday, December 15. Groups in Decatur are performing outstanding service in aiding the Red Cross of DeKalb county. East Point groups are actively working with the American Legion and auxiliary in making Christmas for the less fortunate. Groups are observing the Yuletide with social activities tempered with their service projects.

Bessie Branham park, in Kirkwood, will be the center for carols for the groups of Mesdames A. E. Wilson Sr. and H. W. Morrow, and each group Arts members will provide the musical program.

Hostesses will be Mesdames Thomas English, Fred Wens, Cullen Gosnell, H. W. Mason, J. L. McGhee, Richard Trotter, M. L. Kinson, Harold Banger, John Strausbaugh, Ralph Hesner, R. F. Howell and Miss Margaret Jamis Jameson.

Dinner-Dance Held At East Lake Club.
The dinner-dance held at the East Lake Country Club Saturday evening assembled a throng of the club members and a number of out-of-town visitors, who added interest and gaiety to the occasion. In a party were Dr. and Mrs. Grady Poole, Misses Jane Block, of Athens; Misses Anna Belle Watson, Jacqueline Howard, of Newnan; Dorothy Dickson, Katherine Elkin, Messrs. Henry Barthman, Greer Witches, Connor Ripley, Pierre Howard and E. C. Archey.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thompson, Miss Mary Taylor, Miss Marie Commaque, J. Parks Williamson and William E. Farrell dined together. In another party were Mr. and Mrs. J. Alvin Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. White, Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Hancock and L. J. Jacob, of Detroit, Mich.

Miss Lib Weathers and Miss Elizabeth Gantt, of Raleigh, N. C. were entertained by Joseph F. Hollingsworth and Posey Jones. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Welborn Venable dined together. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Markert formed a party. Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Landstreet and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Russell were together.

Miss Aurelia Speer To Be Presented To Society Dec. 30

Mrs. Robert Spalding Speer have issued invitations to a tea on Saturday, December 30, to introduce to Atlanta society her attractive debutante daughter, Miss Aurelia Speer, from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Twenty-eighth street. Miss Speer is a lovely blond, the possessor of a charming personality and gracious manner.

Assisting the hostess and honor guest in receiving will be Misses Maxine Land, Mary Sage, Margaret Sage, Barry Tufts, Cheney Walker, of Griffin; Mildred Cabaniss and Mesdames Julian Chambers, James B. Baird, Anna G. De Louch, Annie A. Baird, Virginia Speer Hayes and Aurelia Speer Colyar.

Miss Speer is the representative of prominent and distinguished Georgia families. Her paternal and maternal families have been associated with the upbuilding of Atlanta, and were pioneer residents of the city and state.

Atlanta Review.
Atlanta Review No. 1 of the Woman's Benefit Association met in W. B. A. clubrooms at 70 Houston street, Wednesday morning, December 20 at 10:30 o'clock.

Miss Jule McClatchey Makes Formal Bow at Home Reception

First of the formal debut parties to feature the Christmas motif and the gala decorations of the holiday season was the brilliant reception Monday afternoon at which Mrs. Marvin McClatchey formally presented to society her debutante daughter, Miss Jule McClatchey, at her home on Woodcrest avenue.

Bouquets of holly and mistletoe were effectively employed in the decoration of the reception rooms, where numbers of tall red tapers were placed.

Red radiance roses and white narcissus were arranged to center the lace-covered tea table where tall white candles burned in silver holders. The punch tables were placed on the sun porch, and colorful fruits surrounded the punch bowls. A color scheme of red and white was carried out in decorations throughout the house.

Palms and ferns formed a background for the numerous baskets and bouquets of flowers sent the honored debutante by admiring friends. Before this bank of varicolored flowers Miss McClatchey, her visitor, Miss Dorothy Holmes, of Cedar town, and the hostess received the guests. Mrs. McClatchey wore a handsome gown of blue lace, fashioned with high neck-

Mrs. Alston Honors Visitors at Dinner.

Miss Ruth Mooney, of Garden City, L. I., the guest of Miss Anne Alston, and Miss Mary Clay, of Versailles, Ky., who is visiting Miss Betty Schroder, shared honors Sunday at the midday dinner given by Mrs. Robert Alston at her home on Andrews drive. A Venetian bowl holding yellow pompon chrysanthemums centered the lace-covered table. Covers were placed for Misses Clay, Mooney, Anne Alston, Betty Schroder, and Bernard Wolff, Roby Robinson, Abner Calhoun and Edwin Sterne.

Miss Frances Weinman entertains at tea today honoring Miss Mooney, who will also be central figure Wednesday at the party to be given by Mrs. Jessie Nunnally, when the guests will include a small group of close friends.

Sarah Simms, Mimi Fleming, Florence Hancock, Jennie Champou, Adely McClatchey, Bright Bickstaff, Margaret McCarty, Grace Evt, Marion Yundt, Lucy Yundt, Dorothea Blackshear, Lundy Sharp, Ella Neel, of Cartersville; Adelaide Setze, Mary Reynolds, Elizabeth Setze, Mesdames Jere Goldsmith, Monroe Neel, of Cartersville; Herbert Reynolds, S. V. Sanford, of Athens; J. W. Setze and D. F. McClatchey. In the evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock Miss McClatchey invited a few close friends to meet her guests, holding informal open house.

Fritz Orr Club To Give Christmas For Child Welfare

The Fritz Orr Club is honoring the Christmas for the Child Welfare Association. These boys, aged from 6 to 12 years, will give a Christmas tree on Thursday evening, December 21, at the little clubhouse and each of the 75 will bring something, a toy or article of clothing for the Santa Claus of the Child Welfare Association.

The boarding mothers of the wards of the agency will go on Friday to the rooms of the association and will gather up the various gifts donated by interested friends, for a Christmas in a home with all the benefits that kind-hearted pseudo parents can give to former waifs of the streets.

Girl Scouts have made tarleton stockings and dressed 35 dolls; individual friends have expressed their desire to supply the Christmas for some of the children; the Kappa Delta sorority is sending candy, and 175 children will have happy memories of a Christmas made possible through sympathetic generosity.

HUBBELL GIVEN HIGHEST AWARD BY SPORTS POLL

Voted Greatest Star for Year in Nation-Wide Ballot.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The selection of Carl Owen Hubbell as the "man of the year" in all sports marks the second time the honor has gone to a major league baseball star in the three-year history of this annual Associated Press poll. Pepper Martin ran away with the contest in 1931.

The southpaw ace of the New York Giants, who compiled the best record for pitching effectiveness in 17 years, was voted the outstanding man, amateur or professional, by a nationwide jury of sports editors and writers. He received 56 votes out of a total of 207 in the final tabulation, more than double the number for his nearest rival.

Second place went to the first foreign athlete to gain a conspicuous place in the balloting, Jack Lovelock, of Oxford and New Zealand, who turned in one of the great solo achievements of 1933 by beating Bill Bonthron, of Princeton, in a world-record mile race, clocked in 4:07.6. Lovelock collected 29 votes.

Third and fourth place went to the outstanding figures in golf and tennis. Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, winner of the United States open golf championship, received 19 votes and Frederick J. Perry, hero of the British Davis cup triumphs and winner of the United States singles title, 15.

Baseball players were by far the most popular choices in the voting. Led by Hubbell, six major league and one minor league star—Joe Hauser of Minneapolis—accumulated 74 votes altogether. Track sports, with five entries gaining 39 votes, and golfers, with 29 ballots for a half dozen contestants, were next in the volume of voting. Football furnished eight names but only 15 votes, of which five went to Southern California's all-American quarterback, Cotton Warburton, and three to Army's Jack Buckler.

Here's how the first 10 and ties finished in voting order:

Carl Hubbell, baseball	56
Jack Lovelock, track	29
Johnny Goodman, golf	19
Frederick J. Perry, tennis	15
Bill Terry, baseball	15
Gene Tunney, boxing	15
Raymond, boxing	15
Jack Westmore, boxing	15
Donna Shute, golf	15
Chuck Klein, baseball	15
Irvine Warburton, football	15

Three Matches Promise Action

There will be plenty of talent and color on the mat at the city auditorium Wednesday night when Matchmaker Henry Weber offers his second three-match card.

And it promises to be one of the best shows put on here in quite a while.

Frank Jackson, former Harvard wrestling instructor, will meet Sam Jennings, the Cherokee brave, in the feature match of 90 minutes.

Frank Speer, the former Yellow Jacket, will tackle a champion from Indiana, while the other two matches will be between Henry Piers, Holland titleholder, in the one-hour match.

Another newcomer, Archie Rascher, the champion wrestler from Indiana, is matched with Babe Caddock, cousin of the famous Earl Caddock, for a 30-minute tussle. Rascher last year was the Big Ten heavyweight champion.

This lineup gives promise of one of the best shows Atlanta wrestling fans have enjoyed in some time. Tickets are on sale only at the Piedmont Hatters.

Florida Five Opens Season January 5

GAINESVILLE, Dec. 18.—The opening of the University of Florida's 1934 basketball season is just three weeks distant. Coach Ben Clemens, himself an outstanding Florida football, basketball and baseball athlete a few years ago, and who should readily be taken to be a player, rather than the coach, has released his squad for the Christmas holidays, but he is recalling three full teams on December 23.

We will have five working days from that date until the reopening of the university. Clemens said to "The New Year's Day" football game at Knoxville, and it may be that he will not be in readiness for the initial tilt.

The other letter men back are Captain George Gunn, guard; Welcome Shearer, guard; Jimmy Love, forward; and Bob Warner, center. Gunn, Hughes and Love have won 2-3 letters each, while Warner and Shearer, juniors, have one letter to their credit.

The schedule follows: January 6, Mercer at Gainesville; January 10-11, Georgia at Athens; January 12, Mercer at Macon; January 15-16, Houston at Gainesville; February 2-3, Georgia at Gainesville; February 9-10, Clemson at Clemson College; February 12-13, South Carolina at Columbia; February 16-17, Auburn at Gainesville.

El Pais, a Great Newspaper, Attacked by Cuban Mob

LAKELAND, Ga., Dec. 18.—It was a bit curious, down here for the draining of the gigantic lake and the attendant rush by thousands for the tons of fish in the shallow water, to learn about the sacking and burning of El Pais in Havana.

I wonder what happened to the pink marble statue of Diana which stood on the marble steps leading to the editorial rooms? And I wonder if Pepe Conte is to be kept long within the grim walls of Principe castle, the national prison for political prisoners?

Pepe Conte is a sports writer and a brilliant one. He has been with the newspaper El Pais for years and years. He is a national figure. He is a fine looking man. His gray hair is swept back in a pompadour. His features are chiseled. And about every two hours he has a sip of bacardi.

It was last summer that I rode with Pepe Conte in the outskirts of Havana. The strike was on even then and the revolt was rumbling on toward the collapse of the Machado government.

El Pais was leading the fight against the government then and was the Bible of the same motto through which last night looted and sacked the paper.

This day they had strewn tacks on the road. Pepe Conte's car could not pass. He arose and addressed them.

"You would not," he said, "do this to Pepe Conte. You would not do this to one of El Pais' men; El Pais that is even now fighting your battles."

And they cheered him and swept the tacks from the road so that Pepe's car might move in triumph. "Viva Pepe," they yelled.

He lives in the hills on the edge of the city. His wife is an American. Pepe served in the Spanish-American War as an officer with the seventh cavalry from Texas. And he still thinks Texans are the greatest men in the world.

He learned to handle a revolver with the Texans and can "fan" a revolver. He loves baseball, Texans and his home and family and his bacardi.

A REAL WARRIOR.

There are a thousand stories on the island about Pepe Conte. He writes, when he chooses, with a vitriolic pen. I attended the fights with him when his welterweight, a coal-black boy, called La Paz, or "The Peaceful One," upset the favorite.

Conte addressed him thusly before the fight, one of his men translating for me as he talked to the grinning La Paz:

"The boy you are to fight is a white-livered dog. But he can box. Stay away from him. But when you hit him, try to knock his vitals out. Kill him if you can, because he is a rat. But do not forget to stay away. If you show fear I will break every bone in your body."

And so on. The boy listened, grinning.

One of the stories they tell of him was written recently by Jimmy Powers. It seems that Conte, watching his favorite baseball team lose, decided that the first baseman was a terrible bum.

So he wrote in his paper that the first baseman had the heart of a chicken, the thick skull of the bull, the long ears of the jackass and was, in addition to all this, a very terrible bum.

(They have a certain amount of latitude in Cuban journalism that the American papers do not have. As you may guess from the report which Conte wrote. I have had ball players look at me with a very pained look on their faces when it had been suggested in the paper that perhaps another set of players was needed.)

The Cuban first baseman decided that his feelings had been hurt. He found Conte in his favorite cantina having his bacardi. He carried his bat and swung with it. But Pepe, seeing him in the mirror, dodged and took the blow on his shoulder. It knocked him down and as he lay on the floor he pulled his pistol and shot the first baseman.

"But," said Pepe Conte, "I am such a bad shot with my left hand that I shot this bum only in the wishbone, and he will play again next year."

HE GETS SERVICE.

They tell a story of him that once when a restaurant let him sit for 10 minutes without taking his order that he addressed the waiters in choice Spanish and then poured the contents of the vinegar and olive oil bottles over their heads then bounced the bottles off the oiled domes.

Pepe demanded service. He took a lack of it as a deliberate insult and affront. And he had served with the Texans long enough to learn how to battle with gun or fists.

How he escaped being imprisoned during the Machado days is more than I know. We stood drinking some cerveza one night at the bar which stood at one end of the building where the fights were staged.

There were secret agents of Machado everywhere. And anyone who spoke against the government was in danger of being shot and was most certain to be imprisoned.

But Pepe, talking in his natural voice with hundreds around him and many listening, denounced Machado as he had the ball player, except his words were more burning. I stood there green with fear, because I was with Conte and would have accompanied him on whatever little journey the police might have prepared. But no one bothered him.

Another day we stood at a bar drinking some pineapple juice, crushed from the fresh pineapples which were stacked at one end of the bar.

Conte requested a good ripe pineapple. The one served him was green, whereupon, before my horrified eyes, he swept all the pineapples from the bar and denounced the bartender for a dog.

They all feared the green eyes of the saturnine Pepe with his Texas guns and his vitriolic tongue and typewriter.

A REAL SPORTS OFFICE.

Pepe Conte's office was on the second floor and looked out on a patio. He had seven men working for him, covering the fights, the bull fights, the baseball games and all other sports.

The El Pais building had once been the home of a wealthy Spanish grandee. When the newspaper kept it, all the statues of marble and the stairways of marble, all the fine handwrought iron grillwork and carved mahogany was retained. There was no newspaper office like it anywhere.

And now Pepe Conte is a political prisoner, a revolutionist against the Grau San Martin government, and his newspaper and office are burned and sacked. They defended it with guns, the newspapermen, fighting until the mob swarmed up the marble stairs and took the building. I like the whole crew of

PROS FLOCKING TO CALIFORNIA FOR RICH PRIZES

Purses for Seven Tournaments Total $26,500.

By Paul Zimmerman, Associated Press Sports Writer.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Promises of the great prizes of golfers in the history of the California's money tournaments was given today as the country's leading professionals continued arriving for the winter season to get under way at Pasadena Thursday.

It was an optimistic array of mashes and putter performers that crowded Southern California's locker rooms and courses in order to get in a few practice rounds before the Pasadena $4,000 event opens.

While the $26,500 in prize money for the seven tournaments is less than half of the stake in the golden era of 1930, it is more than $5,000 larger than last season.

SHUTE PRESIDENT.

Denny Shute, British open champion, is due tomorrow. Ralph Guldahl, runner-up to Johnny Goodman, the amateur, in the national open tournament, is on course. Gene Sarazen, national P. G. A. champion, is expected in time for the Agua Caliente open and perhaps before.

Walter Hagen, the veteran showman of the links also is California bound; Craig Wood, leading money winner of the 1933 season, was on hand. Leo Diegel, former national P. G. A. champion, has been on the scene for several months, collecting a few titles hereabouts, such as the Southern California and California open championships.

Paul Runyan, winner of the big stake last year, the Agua Caliente open, is here. Then there are the dashed dogs who got their start in California, Olin Dutra, former national P. G. A. champion; his brother, Mortie, and the Espinosa, Al.

"Well, who isn't coming," the question was asked by pros and amateurs alike wherever they met in the locker room on the question of the season. The competition has become so keen that to play par golf meant dividing fourth and fifth-place money or even lower.

RUNYAN CLOSE.

Runyan was one under last year for the 72 holes of the Agua Caliente open, one of the toughest courses ever laid out. Wood finished 3 strokes off par to win the Arizona open; and Wood annexed the Pasadena tournament with a superb 72-hole total.

The golden trail which starts Thursday at Pasadena does not leave the Californians until the second week in February. The schedule follows:

December 21-21—Pasadena $4,000 open.
December 29-31—Santa Monica $2,000 amateur-pro.
January 6-8—Los Angeles $5,000 open.
January 11-15—San Francisco $4,000 match play.
January 21-21—Long Beach $1,000 medal play one day; $1,000 east-west matches second day.
January 26-28—Riverside $2,000 amateur-pro.
February 1-4—Agua Caliente $7,500 open.

EXECUTOR MADE BROWNS' HEAD

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Calling himself "the executor of the estate of the late Philip De Catesby Ball," today was elected president of the St. Louis club of the American baseball league.

He announced an immediate effort would be made to rebuild the Browns into a profitable and winning team.

"I cannot say," he said, "whether the Boston Red Sox have done recently, but funds to a reasonable amount will be at Hornsby's disposal," he explained.

The election, and statement, set at rest rumors that the club would be sold; it also placed the heirs of the wealthy baseball man on record as planning to continue rebuilding efforts started by Mr. Ball shortly before his recent death.

Ball's scheme for a winning ball club centered around Manager Rogers Hornsby, once stormy petrel of the National league, and hired near the close of the 1933 season by the late St. Louis ice machinery magnate.

Columbia Lions Practice Indoors for Rose Game

Because bitter winds and snow made regular football practice impossible, the Columbia University grid team was brought indoors by Coach Lou Little (the fellow in cap and spectacles) and kept in condition for the game with Leland Stanford University in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Cal., January 1, by practicing in the 105th Regiment armory, New York city. The Lions were outdoors yesterday for the first time.

Stumpy Thomason Seeks Backfield Coaching Job

Little Giant, Through As Pro, Prefers Place at North Carolina or Auburn.

By Jimmy Jones.

After four years of roughing it in professional football, John Griffin (Stumpy) Thomason, one of Georgia Tech's immortal halfbacks, is ready to give it up in exchange for a job as backfield coach at some respectable institution—preferably North Carolina or Auburn.

In fact, "Stumpy" has made application for such a place on the new Auburn staff, which is expected to be announced before long. He would like going over there, in view of the school's fine tradition and good record of competition in southern athletics.

Auburn and Tech, "Stumpy's" alma mater, have always been very close and friendly rivals.

"I'll admit I'm getting a little tired of the pro game and four years of it ought to be enough for anybody," Stumpy was saying yesterday.

He had just emerged from a conference with his ex-coach and adviser, William A. Alexander, and Alex had promised to help him out in his new venture.

"I learned a lot of football in those four years at Brooklyn and the four years at Tech and I believe that I am much better qualified to coach backfield than a man just coming out of college," the little giant of the 1928 Tech champions murmured.

Stumpy's modesty was being no more than modest at that. He played fine ball in the backfield of the Brooklyn Dodgers, both as a blocking and running back. He learned a lot about offense and defense that he didn't know and added to the knowledge he gained under Mr. Alexander at Tech.

During the last season he was shifted to fullback and played at that position acceptably. He competed against the finest football players in the country.

But four years of professional football is a lot of football. A fellow gets tired of it eventually, even if the pay is passing good and the associations pleasant.

"I agree with what Benny Friedman said in an article not long ago, that a young man should settle down to some year-around job after several seasons in the pro game, for his legs can't last forever," Thomason added.

"Stumpy" is still very enthusiastic about the pro game, despite his own intentions to quit it. He was greatly interested in the championship game between the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears played before a crowd of 30,000 at Wrigley field Sunday.

The Bears won, 23 to 21, after a thrilling comeback.

GREAT PASSER. "I notice that Harry Newman, of the Giants, completed 12 out of 17 passes for 201 yards; he and Benny Friedman, who came over to our team from the Giants, are the two greatest passers I ever saw. But I believe that Friedman is a better all-around passer than Newman," he declared.

"Stumpy" is very proud of the record of his own team, the 1928 Tech champions, who came up from Dixie made good. Van Rarburn, the former Tennessee end, and Herman Hickman, ex-Vol guard, played with him at Brooklyn and both were very popular performers in Flatbush.

Beattie Feathers, Tennessee's great halfback who recently concluded his career, is a perfect pro type, in Stumpy's opinion, and he would like to see him go to the Brooklyn team, because of his own ability.

"He'd be a knockout up there and is of the rugged type that the game demands," he added.

"Stumpy" goes through with his plans to quit the pro game, his many admirers in Brooklyn will be sorry. But his equally great following in the south will welcome him to the coaching ranks in this section. He is a color, knows football and is a great boy along with it.

Hampden-Sydney Plays Nine Games RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A nine-game schedule, including two games with northern teams, has been arranged for next year's Hampden-Sydney eleven, Charles M. Bernier, director of athletics, announced today.

The Tiger eleven will provide the homecoming attraction for Swarthmore, at Philadelphia, on November 17, and for the University of Delaware, at Newark, Del., on October 20.

NEEDED MONEY NOW AVAILABLE FOR MATERIAL

Not Breaking Up His Club, Veteran Manager Tells Scribes.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The acres of his once-championship baseball combination scattered over the American league, Connie Mack sat in his tower office at Shibe park today and told of the rebuilding of the Athletics.

Dwelling on the past long enough to explain the thoughts behind his actions in that history-making day of diamond trades at Chicago last week, the veteran leader voiced his hopes and expectations for the second reconstruction project he has started on the A's in his long career as manager of the club.

On one thing he was insistent. "I am not breaking up my ball club," he emphasized. "In my opinion, anybody who thinks so is all wrong."

LOSE AND GAIN.

He reiterated that declaration even while talking of the trades Mickey Cochrane to Detroit; George Earnshaw to the Chicago White Sox, and Lefty Grove, Ruben Walberg and Max Bishop to Tom Yawkey's Boston Red Sox.

"Of course, we lose a great deal when Grove and Cochrane depart," he explained. "Yes, and we lose a lot in Earnshaw, Walberg and Bishop. But now we have funds with which to rebuild. In fact, we already have spent a considerable portion for new players."

To the fans, through the baseball writers, he gave a promise and expressed a hope.

"No player with us today, who would strengthen a major league club, will be sold before the close of the 1934 season," he asserted. "And I hope that in the years I have left, I will never again have to sell a player that the fans want me to keep."

Then, notwithstanding his half-century in the game, and his 71st birthday, come next Saturday, Mack told in crisp sentences what was needed on the club before starting another climb to the pennant—such a climb as he battled for 15 years to attain after the break-up of his 1914 championship team.

NEEDS CATCHER.

"We must now go out and get a first-class catcher," he said. "That is one of the first things we must replace. Unfortunately, catchers are very scarce just now."

"For pitchers, we have all right hands. That is what we must get more. I hope some of those we have will develop."

His words indicated that he does not intend using Catcher Charley Berry, obtained from Chicago, in the Earnshaw trade, behind the plate in place of Cochrane, and that he realizes his pitching situation, with Roy Mahaffey the only veteran on the staff, is in a predicament.

Mack enumerated the reasons for the sale of his stars the first, he said, was the realization of his need of a new pitching staff; the second, that he was unable any longer to pay what his stars demanded; and the third, that because two of those traded—Cochrane and Bishop—deserved a chance to improve their positions.

TWO SURE TO GO.

Walberg and Earnshaw were slated to go anyway, he explained. In the case of Cochrane, he did not want to stand in the way of the peppery receiver who had had a chance to "go on" as manager for the Tigers. Bishop asked to be traded because he felt that the "10 years or more he had been with the A's was long enough for any player with one team on the staff."

"I expected to build the pitching staff around Lefty Grove this year," Mack explained. "I called him to my office and told him that I could no longer pay him the same salary. I made a proposition to him and asked him to think it over and see me the next day. Grove never came back. I have not seen him since."

On one other point, Mack was insistent, before bidding his audience good-by.

"I wish you would do what you can to correct the impression that bankers forced us to sell," he said. "Nothing of the kind. I did it of my own free will."

PIEDMONT MEETS AND ABOLISHES 'CLASS RULE'

Six Non-Class Players Must Be on Team Rosters.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Directors of the Piedmont league decided at their winter meeting here today to abolish the so-called "class rule," and provided no limit to the number of class men any club may carry except a requirement that at least six non-class players be on the roster.

All clubs of the 1933 circuit except Winston-Salem, were represented, but it was said only four of them—Charlotte, Wilmington, Greensboro, and Richmond—were assured of having teams in the coming year. W. H. Howe, president of the Durham club, said he expected to iron out differences with the other clubs in a few days.

Decision whether the league will remain at six member clubs or be expanded to eight will be made at a meeting announced by President Dan W. Hill for next month. Norfolk, Lynchburg, and Roanoke, in Virginia; Asheville, High Point and Raleigh in North Carolina, and Greenville, in South Carolina, were listed as probable applicants for franchises.

Although no formal action was taken, it was indicated that the season would probably start April 24 and close September 5.

From the best information obtainable only two teams are certain of managers for the coming season. Blackie Carter is to be in charge of the Wilmington Pirates, and Rice is expected to be back in Greensboro. Oliver French, business manager of the Greensboro Patriots, stated, Ed Hendes, first baseman of the Colts, was the first choice as manager of the Richmond club. Owner Moore announced. However, the change in the class rule may result in the roster of a playing manager. Moore is still able to play a pretty good shortstop, and in event he is president-manager of the Colts, will be able to save a few dollars.

Estate of Reynolds Listed at $200,184.36

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Dec. 18. (UP)—An inventory itemizing the personal estate of the late Smith Reynolds, son of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco family, at $200,184.36 was filed here today.

The money will be held in abeyance, according to the Forsyth county superior court clerk with whom the inventory was filed, until the supreme court rules on what is to be done with Reynolds' inherited estate, now estimated to be worth $400,000. In an agreement between attorneys for the estate, for Libby Holman Reynolds, widow of the youthful tobacco heir, and Ann Cannon Reynolds, his divorced wife, a settlement of $2,500,000 was to be made on the infant son of Libby Holman and another $2,500,000 upon Ann Cannon Reynolds' 11-year-old daughter, Smith Reynolds' first wife.

DR. DORAN DEFENDS BLENDED WHISKY AS PURE BEVERAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Blended whisky was described today by Dr. James M. Doran, distillers' spokesman, as a "product of high purity."

Explaining there had been "widespread misunderstanding" as to the constituents of blended whiskeys, Doran told newspapermen use of the term "alcohol" in connection with the blend is a misnomer.

"No ordinary alcohol is used in these blends," he said. "Neutral middle-run spirits, which is the purest of all distillable, is used for blending."

EDGE DENIES DESIRE TO HEAD G.O.P. GROUP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Reports that efforts had been initiated to make Walter E. Edge chairman of the republican national committee produced an assertion tonight from the former ambassador to France that he was not a candidate for any public office.

Edge, who was senator from New Jersey before going to Paris in the Hoover administration, told newspapermen that he was not "in any way an aspirant for the chairmanship of the national committee, or in fact for any other public office."

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The plant of the Arizona Daily Star, Tucson morning newspaper, was destroyed by fire today, equipment damage was estimated by William R. Marlow, publisher, at $75,000, while damage to the building unofficially was estimated at $20,000.

'Fish Rush' Set Today For Lake at Lakeland

10,000 Acres of Water To Be Drained; It Should Be Some Real Fun for All.

LAKELAND, Ga., Dec. 18.—And so it seems there are 10,000 acres of water and 10,000 people ready to take part in one of the biggest spectacles this section of the state has ever witnessed.

For six weeks now the water has been draining from the big lake here.

Millions of gallons have gone on its way to the broad Chattahoochee. There are millions left, but it is not deep. Only a foot or so of water remains. And it has slipped down to the real basin of the lake.

Already the fluttering trail of fish, big and small, may be seen in the shallow water.

Tomorrow the lake will be the scene of one of the most bizarre sights the state has ever seen. At an early hour ten thousand or more men, women and children will enter the lake.

They will have paid for the privilege. The big bass, gamet of fish, will have no chance to use his cunning and his speed to escape the anglers.

They may use nets, sacks, clubs or any other mode or contrivance for catching the fish.

Prominent Atlantans are here and will speak tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The Atlantans are Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools; George Hamilton, state treasurer; R. E. Gormley, state superintendent of banks, and Judge Alex. McKee.

At 11 o'clock McKee will fire a gun and 10,000 people will descend upon the 10,000 acres of shallow water armed for the conquest.

The lake was drained 12 years ago and fifty tons of fish were caught the first day.

The first reaction is one of protest. But there is really nothing else to be done. The fish would be destroyed eventually by the lack of food and the growth of vegetation which is literally filling the lake. It was necessary to drain it so that the sides of the lake would be cleared of all growth. A state permit has been obtained.

It is necessary to do this every 10 years. When it was done a decade ago there were literally tons of fish removed from the lake. Men picked them in sacks and in barrels. Men came out with their pockets stuffed with fish.

Families here are planning to get enough fish to last them through the winter. To some of the poorer families it is a real boon.

The lake is 10,000 acres in area. East Lake, at Atlanta, for instance, is 33 acres. This one is 10,000 acres. Such a lake and the almost unbelievable number of fish will provide for a spectacle that will be most unusual.

A program of speaking has been arranged for tomorrow. This is the home city of Ed Rivers, well-known member of the legislature. A barbecue and fish fry are also scheduled.

It will resemble somewhat the old land rushes in the frontier days. A signal gun is to be fired. Meanwhile, the banks of the lake will be lined with hundreds of men and women.

Many have marked where the largest fish have been seen. They will find bass weighing as much as 15 pounds, perhaps more, in the lake. There will be crappie and bream.

There are people here from all over south Georgia and north Florida. Others will come early tomorrow from Valdosta and Nashville and neighboring cities.

The plan has caught the imagination of thousands. The gigantic lake, the largest natural lake in Georgia, is to be taken from it literally tons of fish.

Mississippi feet are more common among girls in the south than elsewhere, believes Miss Leah Gregg, adjunct professor of physical training for women, University of Texas. She attributes it to the fact southern girls wear feminine apparel rather than sport clothes.

Entries for the Christmas bowling tournament, piling up at the office of the bowling alley, as the last day of the holiday season, are among the cap system proves a great incentive to bowlers to take part in the meet.

JONES IS READY FOR 'COMEBACK' SPRING MEET

Augusta Tourney Is First for Bobby Since 1930 Campaign.

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP)—His swing is as smooth as a flawless as ever. The foot and hip movements are as rhythmic as in the days not so long ago when he was marching toward the highest heights ever scaled by a golfer.

The scoreboard shows he still has a firm grip on par, but has three years' absence from competition taken into account from the golfing mastery of Bobby Jones.

For the first time since he won the 1930 national amateur at Merion, Bobby comes back into actual competition next March 22-25 in an invitational tournament over the Augusta National course, which he helped design.

This 72-hole medal battle will number among its contestants the best professional and amateur players of the United States. It likely will be the largest collection of stars Jones ever faced in any of his past triumphs. And the tournament may decide several questions.

Whether the many other aces, able for three years to concentrate on par and the perfect timing of every movement, without worrying over the Jones' menace, have forgotten or escaped from the psychological whip Bobby applied over them in the final years of his campaigning. Whether they can produce the same low scores they have been posting recently.

And, perhaps more important, whether the long layoff has taken anything from the Jones mastery.

To all outwardly appearances, Jones is as good as ever. There are no kinks in that swift, easy swing. The perfect timing of every movement, every shot.

But he has been a long time since Bobby was called upon to continually produce his best shots under fire. The other stars will not need a pep talk to train their guns on Jones.

They will remember the havoc he caused in his 14 years of battling along the links.

The answer to Jones' performance may come through the matter of concentration. During his competitive days Jones was a man of absolute concentration he could produce.

If the absence from fire hasn't removed this factor, Bobby likely will be a force to be reckoned with.

Bobby now is in the best physical condition of his life. He is some lighter than in 1930. The waistline, much in evidence then, has receded.

He will have the advantage of knowing the course better than his rivals. His stiff battlement which calls for every shot and tests the skill of players to the limit. Bobby has played here often during the fall and plans to spend most of January and February on the course.

Whatever the outcome, Bobby's appearance in the field will be one of the features of the 1934 campaign—an event of great interest wherever the game is played.

GREAT PLAYER WILL OPPOSE 'Y' TEAM FRIDAY

Emory and Henry Center Has Amazing Record For Versatility.

By Jack Troy.

It's got everything. Everything a coach is old about.

One of the most amazing basketball players in southern collegiate circles will play with the Emory and Henry five against the "Y" team here Friday night.

They call him Glenn (Houdini) Roberts—and they do say he is a basketball, Thurston and Houdini rolled into one.

Roberts is a center. An ideal center. Six feet, 1 inch tall, he averaged 21 points a game last year on an 18-game schedule. He never failed to score less than 10 points.

HE'S IN GAME. What is more, he recovered more rebounds from backboards than any two players on the team and seldom had fouls called on him.

If that is not an ideal center, then there is no one in China or in Texas, or anywhere else to live for.

Offensively and defensively, Glenn Roberts is a one-man team.

It is said that his support, while not the best in the world, is good enough for many of the leading basketball teams in the south.

Emory and Henry only lost one game last year. Practically the same team is fiddling around on the hardwood this season.

Another thing about Roberts, who is so good, material good Roberts, for most of the southern colleges is only fair material at Emory and Henry.

Roberts is a center. A center of shooting is entirely unorthodox.

SOMETHING NEW. Atlanta has been the leading professional players of the world in action. But Atlanta has not seen a college player from a town of 1,000 inhabitants—Fountain, Va., who never falls below 10 points a game and ends a hard schedule with an average of 21 points.

The Emory and Henry five is coached by Eddie Jackson and includes Sammy Neel, "Bus" Mackey and "Tack" Condit, guards; Red Fulk and Jake Robertson, forwards, and, of course, Glenn Roberts, center.

The same "Y" team that won the southern independent championship last season will face the invaders. It is to be the "Y's" opening game of the home season.

By VICTOR E. BUNK.
NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Although there was no special liquidation apparent, bonds generally eased today as the domestic gold price was boosted 5 cents an ounce to $34.06, the first advance in the metal since December 1.

The trading volume dwindled with prices, sales totaling only $10,673,000, par value, against the less than ordinary average of $12,233,000 last Friday. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues was off two-tenths of a point for the third consecutive session.

Aside from the further theoretical depreciation of the dollar in terms of gold, there was little important news. Most United States government securities were off 1-32nds to 3-32nds of a point. The Treasury had purchased $10,000,000 of federal bonds for the sinking fund and for various investment accounts.

The so-called secondary rails were lower, with a few exceptions. A number of the carriers, however, held fairly steady.

Utility and industrial declines of 1 to 2 points around 200 to 300 were suffered by some issues of American Rolling Mill, Litzig & Myers, Postal Telegraph and Warren Bros.

Various issues of Consolidated Gas, Goodrich, United Drug and Tobacco Products were a bit higher. Some foreign obligations rallied along with exchanges.

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN.
CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Disregarding a jump of 5 cents in the Washington price of gold, wheat values averaged lower today. Government-sponsored buying of wheat at Minneapolis and Kansas City seemed as something of an offset.

Wheat closed steadily, 1-8 to 3-8 lower. Corn unchanged, 1-8 to 1-4 higher, oats unchanged to 3-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents decline.

Corn prices developed comparative stability, and to more likelihood of curbing the market for the near future, many reports of a dry day, however, acted as a drag on the market. Oats were rather liberal.

Steadiness of hog values helped to uphold provisions.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want ads are accepted up to 5 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 8:30 p. m. on Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

One time ..... 20 cents
Three times ..... 50 cents
Seven times ..... 1.00
Minimum, 2 lines (12 words).

In estimating the space of an ad figure six average words to a line. Ads ordered for three or more days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and no adjustment made for the rate earned. Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and the Constitution reserves the right to refuse or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directory on memorandum charge only in return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 92

The shadowy figure in the cell of the jailer of Opar soon found what it wanted—a great ring, upon which were strung several enormous keys. Leather thong fastened it to the ring of the jailer, and with the keen blade of the dagger the nocturnal visitor tried to cut the thong. Fire stirred.

Then the priest moved restlessly and commenced to snore again, and once more the dagger sawed at the leather thong. It passed through the strand unexpectedly and touched the metal of the ring, and lightly, but just enough to make the keys jingle ever so slightly.

Instantly Tarzan was awake, but he did not rise. He was never to rise again. Silently, swiftly, before the stupid creature could realize his danger, the keen blade of the dagger had pierced his heart. Soundlessly Fire collapsed. His slayer hesitated a moment.

The figure waited to make certain that the work had been well done. Then, wiping the tell-tale stains from the dagger's blade with the victim's loin cloth, the figure arose and hurried from the chamber, in one hand the great keys upon their golden ring.
